English Shells Hit Cherbourg

R.A.F. Helps Warships in Bombarding

London — (AP) — The ancient stained-glass windows of Canterbury cathedral were damaged in a recent air-raid, it was disclosed officially tonight.

London — (AP) — British heavy and light forces of warships bombarded Cherbourg, on the German-occupied "invasion coast" of France, during the night, the admiralty announced. Cherbourg, almost directly across the English channel from Portsmouth and about 85 miles away, was one of France's great pre-war commercial ports.

The bombardment started fires which were visible 40 miles away, the admiralty communique said, and the R.A.F. assisted the warships in their shelling.

The British ships were said to have met no opposition except for the firing of German shore batteries on the way home.

"No damage or casualties were sustained and there was no naval opposition from the enemy although it was known that enemy light forces were at Cherbourg," the admiralty said.

German warplanes penetrated London's defenses shortly before noon today after being driven off twice in apparent attempts to reach the bomb-shattered capital.

Shrilling air-raid sirens signalled the first two thrusts, but no raiders appeared over the city and the British Press association said the attacks had been beaten off by fighter planes and heavy anti-aircraft fire.

The third daylight alarm also was brief.

Reports came from the Kent coast that 40 German fighters flying at great height crossed the channel during the morning and proceeded inland.

A formation of nine German planes was said to have turned left when anti-aircraft shells burst directly in front of it.

The Nazi raiders roared over England anew after breaking off their regular night attack much earlier than usual. They were believed to have dropped many time bombs on the embattled island during the widespread dusk-to-dawn assaults.

Liverpool dispatches said 40 high-explosive bombs dropped on its port and shipyards in the longest raid of the war in that area, resulting in several casualties. Three bombs narrowly missed a movie theater.

Many Escape Injuries

Several narrow escapes were reported in the London night raids. One hundred employees of a London club escaped injury when a bomb fell near their basement shelter. Barricaded windows were blown in.

A watchman in a one-man "cylinder" shelter was uninjured, although a building was demolished above his refuge.

Scores of persons sleeping in a shelter under a seven-story office building were unhurt although buildings on three sides were wrecked.

The air ministry said five German bombers were shot down yesterday and five British planes were lost. Two of the British pilots were reported safe, however.

Observers said the night attack was much less severe than previous raids, attributing the change to accuracy of their anti-aircraft gunners who were reported to have continued their practice of potting Nazi flares as fast as the raiders dropped them.

The press association said the arches shot down at least two night raiders.

Time Bombs Dropped?

Fewer bomb explosions were heard during the night, despite a large number of raiders, leading to a belief that many of the missiles released were time bombs which exploded only after a few hours or on contact.

Britain's far-ranging bombers slashed again at the German naval base of Wilhelmshaven and the great Krupp shipyards at Kiel last night despite intense anti-aircraft fire, the air ministry announced.

More than fifty districts of London were hit during the all-night attack. Twenty areas in the provinces, from the Thames estuary to the

Admit Severe Damage in Raid Upon Hamburg

Berlin — (AP) — Nazi sources acknowledged today that British warplanes had done considerable damage to the great north German port of Hamburg during the night and also had bombed the Dutch city of Amsterdam, killing and wounding civilians in both places.

"Devastation visible over a radius of one kilometer (five-eighths of a mile)" was done by the British air raiders in a densely populated section of Hamburg, the official German news agency DNB reported.

Another section was said to have been left "a chameleon of ashes."

Casualties in Hamburg were listed as three dead, fifteen seriously wounded and many more slightly injured.

The attack on Amsterdam, the second heavy assault on the Dutch city this week, was said to have taken a toll of 18 dead and 20 injured.

Dover Attacked

Although the British raiders dropped bombs over other areas of northwestern and central Germany, authorities said, they did no military damage.

Anticipating the German high command's report on Nazi air force activities during the night, informed sources said that 225,000 kilograms (496,000 pounds) of bombs had been dropped on London alone.

Dover was reported heavily shelled. Throughout the past six weeks, the same sources said, the British have dropped less than 3,000 kilograms (66,000 pounds) of bombs over Berlin.

German warplanes have been hammering at London, Wales and southern England since morning following a series of night raids, informed Nazi sources reported.

Germans Plan New Talks With Soviet

Berlin — (AP) — The authoritative commentary Dienst aus Deutschland asserted today that new German-Russian conversations would be held soon at Moscow and took occasion to deny that there was any conflict between Soviet interests and the recent pact of Germany, Italy and Japan.

"So far as territorial problems are concerned it is pointed out in Berlin that the Soviet union would be able to procure solid political and commercial advantages through new relations to the reich," the service said.

Dienst aus Deutschland is considered close to the Berlin foreign office.

Norwegians Reported Reduced to 'Serfdom'

Washington — (AP) — The Norwegian legation said today it had heard from Oslo that the "Nazi rulers of Norway" had imposed a state of serfdom, including a rule that "no farmer may from now on go to the city without special permission from the authorities."

The legation added that "unemployed" Norwegians will be transferred to Germany, thus sharing the fate that has already come to Polish laborers.

Big Plane Formations in Flight Over Bucharest and Rumanian Oil Towns

Bucharest — (AP) — Tightly packed formations of about 150 planes, some bearing German markings and others Rumanian insignia, flew back and forth over Bucharest and the oil towns of Ploesti and Giurgiu today.

They swooped low over the British legation in Bucharest where the staff was speeding its packing up.

They patrolled east and west and north and south methodically. At one time 68 planes were over the capital.

At the same time German aviators arrived at their hotel opposite the Royal palace where two floors had been reserved for 45 German officers.

The display of the German Luftwaffe was made as German officials charged through their mouthpiece in Rumania, the Tageblatt, that Turkey had been assigned by Great Britain the task of attacking Rumanian oil wells from the air and that the British ambassador, Sir Reginald Haore, was an accomplice in the plan.

The newspaper declared the new Rumanian regime under Premier General Ion Antonescu, "knows what enemies are, and backed by the axis, will be powerful enough to reply."

The charge was made while a campaign to make Rumania an outpost of German strength appeared well under way. More Nazi troops, guns and other war equipment were reported nearing the country by rail and on Danube river barges through Yugoslavia.

Japs Search for Killer of Puppet Shanghai Mayor

Chinese Official Is Murdered in Sleep In Guarded Dwelling

Shanghai — (AP) — Baffled Japanese military authorities turned the Hongkew section of Shanghai upside down today in a hunt for an unidentified assassin who slew their Chinese puppet mayor, Fu Siao-En, as he slept in his closely guarded home early this morning.

The mysterious killing, characterized by the Japanese as an "inside job," climaxed a series of acts of violence which have taken the lives of several prominent pro-Japanese Chinese in recent months.

Shanghai municipal police said the Japanese had asked them to help locate a trusted personal servant of Fu's, one Sung Tui-En, who was reported missing after the killing.

The 70-year-old mayor's throat was slashed while his wife slept in an adjoining bed and 20 armed guards patrolled the grounds of his home. Madame Fu awakened in time to hear stealthy footsteps retreating from the room but could give no clue to the killer's identity.

Jap Officer Slain

A Japanese officer was shot dead by unknown persons just outside Hongkew about the same time Fu was killed but there was no immediate evidence the two events were connected.

Elaborate precautions had been taken in an effort to insure the safety of the mayor, who narrowly escaped assassination in November, 1938.

Japanese barricaded all streets leading from Hongkew to the non-

Seek to Avert Move by Siam

U. S. Diplomats Hope To Forestall Any Act of Aggression

Washington — (AP) — American diplomatic moves in Thailand (Siam) to discourage any Japanese-inspired aggression were disclosed today as new Far Eastern tension arose in the wake of the assassination of Shanghai's puppet mayor.

Hugh Grant, American minister at Bangkok, conferred with Thai officials yesterday and Secretary Hull said at his press conference that it was to be supposed that Grant repeated the principles of American foreign policy, embracing the status quo in that area.

This coincided with the stopping of a shipment of 10 American-made warplanes which had been sold to Thailand, small Oriental country which has been advancing territorial claims against French Indo-China at the same time that Japan was sending military forces into that colony.

Hull would not discuss the possibility of a dangerous situation developing at Shanghai or insistent rumors there that Japanese forces were preparing to attempt to seize control of the whole International Settlement.

Asked whether the American marine garrison at Shanghai might be reinforced, Hull said only that all phases of the situation in the Far East were receiving attention.

London Blocks All Rumanian Credits, Officials Announce

London — (AP) — The British government has blocked all Rumanian credits in this country, it was learned today.

This was parallel with the action taken yesterday by the United States freezing Rumanian credits in that country.

It was not known whether Rumanian ships in British ports were included in the seizure order which presumably was made because of German troops entering Rumania and because of the arrests and alleged mistreatment of Britons there.

Information on the Rumanian situation which "cannot be regarded as satisfactory" has been received from Sir Reginald Hoare, British minister to Bucharest, authoritative sources said today.

A spokesman refused to comment on the possibility of a rupture in relations with Rumania but sections of the London press demanded that the British minister to Bucharest be recalled herewith.

A number of reports have been received from Sir Reginald since communications have been "somewhat improved," the spokesman said, declaring, "these show he has seen and interviewed responsible ministers of the Rumanian government."

Previously it was reported communications were difficult, with Sir Reginald getting through only one message in the last few days.

Election Result May Decide Fate Of 2 Measures

Action on Wagner Law, Logan Bill Delayed in Senate

Washington — (AP) — The senate's disposition of two highly controversial pieces of legislation—Wagner act amendments and the Logan-Walter bill—appeared today to depend largely on the November election results.

Any action on these or other pending measures was excluded when Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), the majority leader, won agreement to a weekend recess without objection. On Monday, Barkley said, he will move to recess until Thursday and on that date to the following Monday.

Barkley has asked that this same pattern be followed until Nov. 18.

House Adjourned

The house, having failed to muster a quorum at a short-lived session yesterday, stood adjourned until Monday, with leaders hinting that an agreement was near to follow the senate's example in suspending business.

Meanwhile, senate leaders said that the outcome of the presidential campaign would probably exert a material influence on the ultimate disposition of the proposed labor act changes and also of the Logan-Walter measure, which is aimed at facilitating court appeals from the decisions of federal administrative agencies.

A victory for President Roosevelt, leaders said, probably would end chances of approval for the two bills which have been stymied in the senate by administration opposition since their passage by the house.

Believe Engineer Was Victim of Gas

Washington — (AP) — The interstate commerce commission reported today a finding that the railroad engineer whose failure to obey an operating order resulted in a head-on collision fatal to 43 persons July 31 near Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, might have been a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The accident involved a gasoline-electric coach and a freight train.

The ICC said that from its investigation "it is apparent that the engineman was not in full possession of his normal mental faculties while his train was traversing a distance of approximately four miles approaching the point of accident. The symptoms described and the mental and physical reactions of the engineman just prior to the time of the accident point toward the possibility that he may have been a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning. Research reports state that these persons are particularly susceptible to carbon monoxide poisoning. (Ensignman Thomas L. Murrough was 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighed 195 pounds.)"

Believe Dykstra Will Head Draft

Madison — (AP) — A special meeting of the University of Wisconsin regents called for tomorrow, lent emphasis today to reports that President Clarence A. Dykstra would accept the post as head of the federal selective service.

Dykstra returned from Washington where President Roosevelt offered him the position of draft director, stating that he was "still considering" the matter.

He said he wished to confer with the university board and the call for the special meeting followed.

"I said in Washington that I would not be ready to make any announcement of my answer until I had talked to my people here in Wisconsin," he added. "Some of the regents—as many as can come on short notice—will meet with me tomorrow to counsel me on possible arrangements if I should accept the position in Washington."

Confederate Veterans Meet in Washington

Washington — (AP) — Flags of the Confederacy fluttered along Constitution avenue today as the military forces of the nation joined a bare two-score of Robert E. Lee's old soldiers in an hour-long parade.

Bowing to advancing age, the gray uniformed veterans of the war between the states rode in automobiles—all, that is, except General J. R. Sadler, 94, of Nashville, who insisted on riding a horse.

"I was with General Nathan Bedford Forrest, the greatest cavalryman of them all," he explained.

Reich Consul Cites Treaty To Avoid Court

Fails to Answer Summons on Charge Of Improper Parking

Boston — (AP) — Instead of answering a summons today, which charged improper parking, Herbert Scholz, German consul at Boston, returned the document to the court, together with a letter citing a treaty of "friendship, commerce and consular rights as reason why he should be spared such a motoring unpleasantness."

Judge Donald E. Mayberry of suburban Newton's district court readily agreed to a continuance to Oct. 17 to permit Scholz's counsel to prepare a motion to quash. Meanwhile the court will have a peek at the treaty.

The consul's driving license was suspended yesterday by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin—mandatory action, he said, when a warning had not been heeded.

Patrolman Edward Foley, who reported Scholz's car too close to a street intersection, is a wounded World war veteran entitled to wear the distinguished service cross with two palms and the order of the purple heart.

In his letter to the court, Scholz said the treaty between his country and the United States provides that testimony of a consular officer can be taken "orally or in writing at his residence at his convenience," and contended that there is "no provision whatever that the consular officer himself may be tried before the court."

Oregon Police Capture 2 Kaukauna Boys, Girl

Pendleton, Ore. — (AP) — Two teenage boys and a girl who said they were from Kaukauna, Wis., surrendered today after a wild flight from Spokane, Wash., which included two shooting encounters with officers.

Police Henry Arkell and Frank Hutton, to whom the trio surrendered, said they identified themselves as Allen Treichel, 15, his sister, Bernice, 17, and Richard Lettau, 18.

Lettau was wounded in the right thigh and the girl on the right shoulder.

The fugitives were in a station wagon taken at Colfax, Wash., where an old (Buick) sedan with Wisconsin license plates was abandoned.

Spokane policemen in a prowling car and occupants of the Wisconsin car exchanged shots at 2 a. m. in an unsuccessful effort by the officers to halt the car. The town marshal at Rosalia, Wash., reported he was fired upon later.

A store was broken into at Pomeroy, Wash., and a candy slot machine looted.

Police Chief James McFadden of Kaukauna said today the trio has been missing for more than a week. A police broadcast was made last week asking authorities to keep a lookout for the youths.

Slayer of Stepfather Sentenced to Prison

Milwaukee — (AP) — A municipal court jury last night returned a verdict of second degree manslaughter against Frank Klancnik, 21, charged with the slaying of his stepfather during a quarrel last April 10.

Circuit Judge George J. Leicht, Wausau, sitting in municipal court, immediately sentenced Klancnik to a term of four to six and one half year in state prison. He will be eligible for parole in two years and 10 months.

Klancnik testified that he killed his stepfather, John Scharz, "because I was afraid he would kill me." He said Scharz "abused my mother all the time."

The jury deliberated three hours and a half.

Shooting at Farm Home Early Today

Wynn Bohnsack, 46, Appleton, last night attempted to kill his former sweetheart, Miss Gertrude Sprister, 32, route 4, Appleton, and then killed himself, Sheriff John Lappen said today.

Miss Sprister, wounded three times by a .32 calibre pistol fired by Bohnsack, was reported in "fair" condition today at St. Elizabeth hospital.

The shooting occurred about 11:30 last night at the farm home of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sprister, just southeast of the city limits.

Bohnsack, a car salesman who roomed at 510 E. Pacific street, had known Miss Sprister about two years but they parted company about a month ago, authorities were told. Bohnsack, however, attempted to see the girl on several occasions and was advised against molesting her.

As Miss Sprister was driving to her home, alone in her car, she noticed Bohnsack following her in another machine, she told Jack Frenz, county traffic policeman. Bohnsack, the girl said, tried to force her coupe off the road and struck the left rear end with his car.

Fired Through Window

As the girl reached the farm, Bohnsack ran to her car and fired through the left side door window. The bullet grazed the girl's head and she pressed the horn button to attract help. Bohnsack shot twice more, one charge breaking the girl's left arm and the other entering her chest.

Alvin Sprister, 28, brother of the girl, rushed outside from his bed, saw his sister, bleeding, step from the car, and he dashed after Bohnsack who was going down the road. The two tussled, but Sprister permitted Bohnsack to go when the latter warned.

"I've got a gun. Al."

Alvin returned to the house, dressed and took the wounded girl to the hospital. In the meantime authorities were notified.

Motorcycle Policeman Frenz, first to arrive at the farm home, found Bohnsack lying in the front yard just off the driveway. He had died from two bullets fired into his brain, and the pistol lay under him. Five bullets had been fired from the gun.

On the dead man's person was a note in which he said he could not live without the girl and blamed the Sprister family for the broken romance. Sheriff Lappen said the note probably had been written by Bohnsack before he left his home earlier in the evening.

No Inquest

District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr, who also investigated, said no inquest would be called in Bohnsack's death.

Bohnsack lived in Appleton the last six years. He was a musician and a former bartender.

Survivors are the father, Peter Bohnsack, Plymouth; three brothers, Leon and George, Plymouth; Harry, Sheboygan; and three sisters, Mrs. Herbert Swann, Milwaukee; Mrs. George Abler, Sheboygan Falls; and Mrs. John Wapp, Plymouth.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Wittkopf funeral home, Plymouth. The body may be viewed at the funeral home after 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Public Housing 'Job Of Defense,' Chief Executive Asserts

Pittsburgh — (AP) — President Roosevelt, referring to public housing as a "job of defense," said today as long as the people know the government "is working to protect their jobs and their homes, we will be confident that if the need arises, the people will wholeheartedly join in defense of their homes and their country."

Sitting in an open car, he dedicated the 100,000th home unit of the United States housing authority at the $13,800,000 terrace village, a series of three-story apartments for low-income families, after a swing through industrial plants essential to national defense.

Assuming that they have been awarded with great care and caution to insure against waste and extravagance and that national interest has been guarded against graft and profiteering, the history of waste in the World war should be warning that only by constant vigilance on the part of congress as well as on that of administrative departments the moneys shall be well and efficiently spent," the congressman said.

National Guard Cavalry Units to Be Reorganized

Mechanization to be Feature of Seven Additional Regiments

Washington—(AP)—Reorganization of the national guard cavalry, mostly into faster, partly mechanized corps regiments, was announced yesterday by Major General John F. Williams, chief of the U. S. department's national guard bureau.

The reorganization included also creation of several anti-aircraft field artillery, engineer and other national guard units.

Seven corps cavalry regiments of a type which already has been extensively tested in maneuvers, will be created from four existing guard cavalry divisions.

Two of the regiments, described as "fast moving, hard hitting units, capable of rapid ground reconnaissance," already have been created in the regular army, and the seven new regiments will provide one such unit for each of the nine prospective army corps.

Sources Of Units
The seven regiments and other units are being formed from these guard divisions—the 21st, from Massachusetts, New Jersey and New York; 22nd, from Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania; 23rd from Alabama, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Tennessee and Wisconsin; and 24th from Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Washington and Wyoming.

This type cavalry regiment, General Williams said, was comprised of eight troops—a headquarters troop, a service troop, a horse squadron of three troops and a mechanized squadron of three troops.

Illinois troops of the 23rd Cavalry division will form the 106th Cavalry, the 101st separate battalion anti-aircraft coast artillery will be formed of all Georgia troops in the 23rd Cavalry division. Tennessee troops in the same division will form the 161st Field artillery.

Wisconsin elements of the 23rd Cavalry division will be converted into the 126th Field artillery.

Defend Democracy, Christians Urged By Butler President

Indianapolis—(AP)—President Daniel Sommer Robinson of Butler university urges that Christians defend democracy "even though this compels us to become Christian soldiers in the literal sense of the word."

He told the North American Christian convention last night it is the duty of a Christian today to defend his country, providing he lives under a democratic form of government.

"A Nazi victory will destroy democracy, and this will irreparably injure Christianity," he said of the European war.

"Let us remain Christians and free men," he added, "even though this compels us to become Christian soldiers in the literal sense of the word."

Leaders in the Disciples of Christ denomination from throughout the United States were here for the five-day meeting, which began Wednesday night.

Sen. LaFollette Says Taxes Need Revision

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—(AP)—United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., campaigning for reelection, said last night that American economy and government would function much better if "our antiquated and unfair tax system was completely overhauled."

He said he had long advocated "a Progressive tax program to abolish the multitude of hidden taxes which pick the pockets of the poor."

"In place of these unjust taxes we must enact income and inheritance taxes based upon the Progressive principle of taxation according to ability to pay," he declared.

The farmer and the laborer must be relieved of the mass of excise and sales taxes now in force and that burden must be shifted to the shoulders of those who can carry it readily."

National Spending Is Rapped by F. E. Clausen

Cambria—(AP)—National spending is exceeding national income so rapidly that all congressional appropriations in the last three months had to be made on borrowed money, Fred E. Clausen, Republican United States senatorial candidate, declared in an address yesterday.

"Our national debt is so large that it can hardly be visualized," he said. "But the fact remains that every farm in the United States, all buildings upon them, the crops, the livestock and the machinery are not equal in value to this debt."

Asserting that Wisconsin's businessmen and farmers were being taxed to the limit of their ability to pay, he said that he knew of a "farm assessed for $27,000 in 1932, and today assessed for $13,000, that paid $12 more tax in 1939 than at the peak of its valuation."

Throngs Cheer Roosevelt in Keystone State

President Making 2-Day Inspection Of Defense Points

Aboard President Roosevelt's special train—(AP)—A peppy high school band, thousands of yelling citizens and a delegation of officials—Republican and Democrat—noisily started President Roosevelt off today at Johnstown, Pa., on a two-day tour of Pennsylvania and Ohio points vital to national defense.

While the trip officially was described as another non-political expedition, it was taking Mr. Roosevelt into two pivotal states—with politicians joining the president's special train at every stop.

The chief executive got out on the back platform of his private car at Johnstown, a navy cape guarding him against the chill of a foggy morning, and waved to the crowd assembled at the station.

Then the train moved slowly down the Conemaugh river to Seaward, where the chief executive had an opportunity to see work under way on a $7,600,000 channel improvement project designed to prevent more disastrous floods.

"Thanks, Mr. President"

A sign along the bank said: "Johnstown channel improvement, flood control project. Thanks, Mr. President." And along the way, people held up signs of welcome, one of which said, "thanks for everything."

Among those joining the president at Johnstown were Senator Guffey (D-Pa.); Meredith Meyers, state Democratic chairman; David Lawrence, national committeeman, and Luther A. Harr, Democratic state campaign manager. They were riding to Pittsburgh, where Mr. Roosevelt had arranged to inspect plants turning out products essential to defense and dedicate the 100,000th unit of the United States housing authority's national slum clearance and low-cost housing program.

Sam Seward, the 11-car special rolled on toward Pittsburgh. A special club car was carried for the use of the politician and officials coming aboard at various stops on the tour.

In line with the non-political label attached to the trip, Ohio's Republican governor, John W. Bricker and the Republican mayor, Floyd F. Green, were to join the party at Columbus, Ohio, tomorrow. And Mr. Roosevelt was to be greeted there, also, by Martin Davey, former Democratic governor of the state.

State Will Grow 8th Largest Tobacco Crop

Washington—(AP)—The department of agriculture estimated yesterday that Wisconsin would grow the eighth largest tobacco crop in the nation this year.

No state figure was given, but the department predicted that the total United States crop would be 1,268,912,000 pounds, "materially below" the 1939 figure of 1,848,654,000 pounds.

The largest tobacco crop was expected from North Carolina, followed by Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Maryland, Ohio, Connecticut, Florida, Massachusetts, Indiana, and Missouri, in that order.

ST. PAUL'S ALTAR WRECKED—This is the ruined high altar at St. Paul's cathedral, London, which has been struck by a German bomb, according to a British announcement. The bomb hit the cathedral roof, tumbling tons of masonry onto the altar, 90 feet below, with this result. This photo was cabled from London to New York.

War Situation Today

Germans Admit British Air Attacks Cause Heavy Damage

British warships bombarded the German-held "invasion" base of Cherbourg on the French coast today, attacking boldly in a thick dawn haze, and set huge fires visible 40 miles away, the London admiralty reported.

No damage or casualties were sustained by the sea raiders, the admiralty said, adding:

"There was no naval opposition from the enemy although it was known that enemy light forces were at Cherbourg."

Nazi quarters minimized the effect of the bombardment, asserting that only a single British cruiser "attempted" to shell the big shipping port and that it was routed by the fire of German coastal batteries which "showered" the cruiser with shells.

The Germans acknowledged, however, that R. A. F. bombers striking before dawn created havoc at the great north German port of Hamburg.

In the Far East crisis, while Japan officially muffled sabre - rattling thrusts at the United States, excited rumors circulated in Shanghai that Japan is planning to seize the French settlements there on Oct. 18, and that 14,000 Japanese-controlled Chinese troops are already massed outside the city.

Japanese navy and army spokesmen denied any such intention, but nervousness prevailed there and elsewhere in the Orient.

Britain followed the United States' example of "freezing" Rumanian credits amid signs of a break in Anglo-Rumanian relations following the "drang nach oosten" (march to the east) infiltration of German troops into the rich Balkan kingdom.

A British cruiser boldly attempted to shell the German-held naval "invasion" base of Cherbourg on the French coast today, and Nazi quarters also acknowledged that R. A. F. bombers attacking before dawn created havoc at the great north German port of Hamburg.

The British warship, attacking in a thick morning haze, was reported routed by the fire of German coastal batteries which "showered" the cruiser with shells.

The Germans also reported that R. A. F. bombers attacked Amsterdam in Nazi-occupied Holland, killing 18 and wounding 20 in the second heavy assault on the Dutch city this week.

More than 50 London districts were hit by bombs in the night-long German raids, and Nazi warplanes sprang a series of alarms as they returned to assault the capital by daylight.

Other major developments crowded the international picture: 1. An open rupture between Great Britain and Rumania appeared imminent as great numbers of German troops, guns and equipment were reported entering the Balkan kingdom by rail and on Danube river barges via Yugoslavia.

2. In London, the British said information "which cannot be regarded as satisfactory" had been received from Sir Reginald Hoare, British ambassador to Bucharest. The London press demanded that Sir Reginald be recalled immediately.

3. Rumania's legation counselor in London quit his post and resigned from the Rumanian diplomatic corps.

4. German official circles in Bucharest charged that Turkey has been commissioned by Great Britain to attack Rumanian oil fields by air. More and more, Turkey appeared as the next target of a heralded axis thrust into southeast Europe.

5. Amid an official "softer attitude" by Japan toward the United States, Emperor Hirohito of Japan reviewed a huge display of Japanese naval power off Yokohama—more than 100 warships and 250 fighting planes.

Domestic, authoritative Japanese news agency, said "great importance must be attached to this naval demonstration at the present moment"—an obvious reference to badly-strained United States-Japanese relations.

Japanese Foreign Office Spokesman Yachihiro Suma declared at a press conference that "responsible people on both sides of the Pacific should be very calm."

Concern was aroused in Washington by the possibility of trouble in Shanghai as the result of the slaying early today of the city's puppet mayor, Fu Siao-En, and a Japanese army officer.

On the European side, President Roosevelt "froze" some $100,000,000 of Rumanian-owned money and securities in the United States to keep them out of the hands of the Germans.

Airports for Defense Only

Appleton Not on List Under Federal Landing Field Plan

Appleton's chances for a $455,500 appropriation, from the federal government for an airport have gone by the board for the time being with a decision of congress to develop 250 landing fields in the United States for national defense at a cost of $40,000,000.

Wisconsin was listed for three airports under the program which now rests with the secretary of war, navy and commerce. The three Wisconsin airports were rated as factors in national defense by the Civil Aeronautics administration.

Tentatively the airports slated for consideration are at Milwaukee, Camp Douglas and at Madison.

The preliminary survey listed 3,929 airports which should be built or improved to meet unprecedented expansion of military aviation and the tremendous advance in all phases of civil aeronautics and air commerce.

The bill awaiting the appropriation for 250 strategically located landing fields awaits the president's signature.

Hamilton Fish Will Talk in State Oct. 23

Chicago—(AP)—Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep-N. Y.) will speak in Wisconsin Oct. 23 on behalf of the Republican presidential campaign, John D. M. Hamilton, executive director of the Republican national committee, announced yesterday.

Hamilton said that the Wisconsin city had not yet been selected.

Senator Wiley (Rep-Wis.) will speak at Groton, S. D., Oct. 21, and Twin Falls, Idaho, Oct. 24, Hamilton said.

service. He was quoted as saying: "I should never allow myself to be associated with the present Rumanian government—a government which has surrendered to a foreign power."

Willkie Charges Nation Is Split

Asserts Section Is Set Against Section For Political Gain

En route with Willkie to Boston—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, campaigning through southeastern Massachusetts in balmy autumn weather, appealed today for national unity and declared that "the New Deal's splitting the country into classes makes me sick."

Standing bareheaded in the tonneau of his automobile, bathed by a warm October sun, he asserted that the pitting of section against section had been done by the Roosevelt administration not as a means of promoting industrial production, but rather "to promote political profit."

"And worst of all," he declared, "it does this at a time when, as the third-term candidate said at Chickamauga a month ago, our essential need is absolute unity."

Crowds estimated by police in the various cities to total 50,000 greeted the Republican presidential nominee with cheers and applause—and some boos—as his motor cavalcade moved through New Bedford, Fall River, Taunton and Brockton.

Cheered Over Crowds
"I'm having a wonderful time in Massachusetts," Willkie told a throng at Fall River. "Every place I go the crowds are great."

Earlier, in New Bedford, he asserted that "if we do not prevail this fall, this pleasant and effective way of life will pass."

In Brockton, Willkie told a noisy, applauding street crowd that he wanted to thank it "from the bottom of my heart" for its welcome.

The nominee reiterated his contention that "we can not continue to go down the road to bankruptcy and preserve our system of free enterprise or our American way of life."

He said he wanted to create jobs, adding, "jobs are what America needs."

Accompanied by Governor Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Representative Joseph Martin, chairman of the Republican national committee, and Henry Parkman, Bay State GOP nominee for the United States senate, Willkie called for the election of all three as he opened the second half of his four-day tour of New England.

Robinson to Support President Roosevelt

Sheboygan—(AP)—Dr. James K. Robinson of Milwaukee, who opposed Governor Heil for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, announced today that he would support President Roosevelt's campaign for reelection.

C. E. Broughton, Democratic national committeeman, announced receipt of a letter from Dr. Robinson saying in part:

"I believe in all that Franklin Roosevelt stands for in these historic days. To me he is the only man today honestly qualified to be president of the United States of America as the world catches on fire with the flames of consuming hate."

"I believe in his Americanism."

Air And Sea Forces In For Test of Supremacy

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
New York—(AP)—The projected axis offensive against Britain in the Mediterranean theater may be expected to develop quickly into a titanic struggle for control of this strategic area—a control for one of the foundation stones of the British empire.

Mackenzie

throw every ounce of power which they can muster.

This battle of the Mediterranean, as I see it, will break fresh military ground in that it will in its essence be a conflict between air ships and warships—between the combined axis air fleets and the British navy.

Why? Because England rules the waves. Her domination of the waters of the Mediterranean is so complete at this moment that Italy can't even move troops or supplies to any great extent to her African possessions.

Depend On Air Power
The axis must depend on its air power, which is much greater than that of Britain, to counter this great naval strength.

The big offensive will give us a more complete test of the relative effectiveness of these two fighting arms when employed against each other.

We have seen that the German armada, which some experts expected would be able to plow England under in a few days, and smash the naval battle line, hasn't been able to achieve this. It would appear that in order to subdue England, the air attack must be supplemented by an invasion with infantry. The air hasn't been able to do it alone. Neither has the air been able to drive the British fleet to cover.

But this doesn't prove the big point of relative strength because the resistance of the Royal Air Force has been a major factor.

In the battle of the Mediterranean the British will—certainly at the outset—lack this air power for they must maintain their present defense of the mother country. Thus there will be a vast inequality in the opposing air forces. Then we may see whether the great axis bombers can break the British surface fleets in the Mediterranean and also whether warplanes alone can reduce populations to impotence.

Land Operations
The land operations naturally will include a continuation of the Italian invasion of Egypt across the desert from Libya. The fascists also may strike into the Sudan from Ethiopia and thence down the Nile.

Then, of course, there are many signs that the axis may try to drive down through the Balkans in an effort to clamp a great pair of pincers on the British by attacking them from the east as well as the west.

The extent of such operations will, to my mind, depend on Russia's attitude. The Muscovites with small doubt are fuming over this axis invasion of the Balkans, since it not only is inimical to Russian interests in that region but establishes a direct military threat against the Soviet.

Not to put too fine a point on it, it seems to me that the well-nigh inevitable war between Russia and Germany is a mighty sight nearer. However, should the Russian threat become grave, the Nazi Fuehrer and his colleague may confine their activities in the Balkans to consolidating their position and acquiring bases for operations.

Japanese side of the International Settlement in an attempt to trap the slayer.

Fu, who was born in Ningpo of humble parents, rose to a leading place in the business life of Shanghai through native shrewdness and became mayor of the Japanese-occupied parts of the city in October, 1937, during the first year of the undeclared war between China and Japan.

A year later he was appointed mayor of the Shanghai special municipality, which included all districts outside the International Settlement and the French concession.

He became an enemy of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the present Chungking government, in 1927 when he furnished supplies to the northern armies unsuccessfully opposing the rising Chiang.

Despite Japanese denials, usually well-informed sources insisted tonight that 14,000 Chinese soldiers of the Japanese-dominated Nanking government were concentrated outside Shanghai while rumors had it that Japan plans to take over the International Settlement or the French concession Oct. 18.

Navy and army spokesmen officially denied the rumor that Japanese forces "are planning to take over the settlement or the French concession by force Oct. 18 after the Burma road reopens."

Softer Attitude

Tokio —(AP)—Washington's advice to Americans to leave the troubled Orient appears to have induced a softer attitude among Japanese toward the United States, an informed source said today.

A new tack in public utterances may be taken, it was said, as a result of the failure of a "trial balloon" by Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye to produce the desired reaction in the United States.

Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka's repetition of the declaration that the Japanese-German-Italian pact was not directed against the United States was interpreted as evidence of such a change.

Prince Konoye a week ago had invited the United States to cooperate with the Rome-Berlin-Tokio axis but declared on the other hand that any United States challenge to axis division of world leadership would bring a "fight to the finish."

The source analyzing the trend of Japanese utterances said he interpreted the premier's statement as an attempt to arouse pacifists in the United States to demand a slackening of Washington pressure, lest an armed conflict result.

When Washington subsequently advised United States nationals to leave the Japanese empire, among other places in the Orient, this source said, it destroyed the psychological advantages of any future saber-rattling by the Japanese.

Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, told a press conference today that "responsible people on both sides of the Pacific should be very calm."

American businessmen were watching developments closely, meanwhile, in the belief that the United States withdrawal policy might lead to further aggravation of strained trade relations.

British Fleet, R.A.F. in Raid On Cherbourg

west country, in Wales, the midlands and the northeast also were attacked.

The government reported incendiary bombs caused some fires in London and the suburbs, but added that none of these were extensive and all were brought under control swiftly.

Some persons have been killed or injured," a communique said, "but having regard to the scale and the widespread and indiscriminate nature of the attacks, the number of casualties is not heavy, according to the information at present available."

Both the German raiders and the R.A.F., criss-crossing over the channel, dared a ripping gale to drive home their overnight attacks.

One raider jettisoned his bombs at sea and then roared inland over a northern holiday resort, diving down to fire bursts from his machine-guns. The populace ran for shelter as bullets splattered on the rooftops.

The ministry of home security said military and industrial damage caused by air raids in the last week had been "relatively slight" and that casualties showed a sharp reduction over previous weeks. Public utilities in London were said to be practically normal.

During last night's raids, nazi bombs fell on four houses in the working class district of a Welsh town, killing two women.

Other districts of Wales which were under attack were said to have escaped with slight damage and few casualties.

Roosevelt's Son Has Good Word for Willkie

New Brunswick, N. J.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie is a "very fine man," in the view of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who thinks, however, that "my old man" is a little more capable of being president.

Speaking at a political forum at the New Jersey college for women last night, Roosevelt struck at what he said were rumors the president was preparing the country for war, and asserted his father "loves peace."

HEAD CORPS AREAS—Brigadier General Charles H. Bonesteel, left, has been appointed commander of the Sixth corps area of the United States army and Brigadier General Robert L. Eichelberger, right, has been named commander of the Fifth corps area. The Sixth corps area embraces Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. The Fifth corps area comprises the states of Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky.

Black Creek Wants to Build Water Distribution System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Residents and community officials of the village of Black Creek will appear at a hearing here Oct. 13 to give their reasons for wanting to build a new public water distribution system in the village.

Municipal officials filed application for authority to create a water utility, and to build the necessary plant and buildings, after village voters approved the project in a recent referendum. Plans have been submitted to the commission by A. E. McMahon, engineer, H. J. Brandt, president and E. G. Shaw, village clerk.

They have applied for authority to build a complete utility for sanitary and fire protection, the commission reports.

A 60,000 gallon elevated steel tank, 130 feet high, to be located at the intersection of Maple and Burdick streets at the southern end of the village, is included.

The water well will be at the corner of Beach and Mary street, but the location may be changed if another is found more satisfactory, it was indicated.

Bids will be taken this fall, and construction will begin before the cold weather if possible, according to local authorities.

The commission has asked for cost estimates, probable revenue, number of potential customers, and the reasons for the proposed improvement.

Originally scheduled to be held in Black Creek, the public hearing has been transferred to Madison and will be held at the state capitol.

Lind Church Is 30 Years Old

Anniversary Will be Celebrated Sunday At Two Services

Weyauwega — Emmans Evangelical Lutheran congregation, town of Lind, on Sunday will celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the dedication of its edifice. The circuit speaker will be Rev. R. A. Karpinsky of Manawa, who will preach in German at 10:15 in the morning. During the noon hour the women of the congregation will serve a chicken dinner.

The English service will be conducted by the Rev. W. J. Boese of Poy Sippi. His congregation is a sister congregation to the one at Lind, both of them having branched off from Christ church of West Bloomfield. The Rev. William Lauterbach is pastor of Emmans church.

A. J. Rieck Weyauwega was unanimously reelected chairman of the Waupaca County Democratic Committee at a meeting held in Manawa on Wednesday.

A group of students including Darwin Wentzel driver—Buehl Wentzel, Raymond Koepf and Ada Gerhke of Fremont, who attend the Weyauwega High school suffered bruises and scratches when their car over turned 4 miles south of Weyauwega on highway 10. The accident happened at 4:30 in the afternoon as the students were returning to their homes in Fremont. Raymond Koepf was badly cut about the head and was attended by a local physician.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

On a New Order in the World

Prince Konoye is only one among many who have been suggesting that the world might be divided profitably if the Axis took Europe and Africa, if Japan took Asia, and if the United States took the Western Hemisphere. The suggestion has found an echo in certain quarters over here, the argument being that the policy of the Axis and of Japan in their spheres is in no fundamental sense different from our own policy under the Monroe Doctrine.

Prince Konoye and his friends in Berlin and Rome are wholly mistaken. There is no resemblance between the Monroe Doctrine and the so-called "new orders" in Asia or in Europe. The Monroe Doctrine is, in fact, the antithesis of these new orders; it is based on a diametrically opposite conception of the rights of man, of the rights of nations, and of the vital interests of a great power in relation to its weaker neighbors. In principle, and in a practice which with rare and temporary exceptions has been consistent, the Monroe Doctrine is a doctrine of anti-imperialism; it is a policy developed to stop imperial rivalry and to check the expansion of empire; it is a policy which is designed to preserve and to encourage, and, as a matter of fact, has preserved and encouraged, the independence of many nations and their progress in self-government. The new orders in Asia and in Europe are based on conquest, and they are imperialist in a degree unknown among civilized men for several centuries. So there is no foundation whatever for the suggestion that the relationship of the United States to its neighboring republics is in any way similar to the relation of Germany and Italy and Japan to their neighbors.

U. S. Has Rejected Imperialism Theory

This can be affirmed without any unwarranted self-righteousness on our part. For while it is true that we have acquired territory by force of arms, and that on many occasions in the past we have intervened by force in neighboring countries, the record after more than a hundred years is there to prove that this hemisphere, which was a colony of Europe, is today the home of more than twenty independent states. Our record is far from perfect; we too have been infected here and there, now and then, with the virus of imperialism. But we have regarded it as an infection, as something disgraceful to be exposed and combated when it shows itself; never have the American people as a whole believed, nor long allowed greedy interests among them to believe, that they were called upon to rule over alien people. The claim of the Axis powers that they are master races called upon to rule over others is a claim which, when made by Jungoists here, has always in the end been rejected by the nation.

And therefore, though we have had the opportunity and the power to build an empire over our weaker neighbors, we have not done so. Forty years ago we played at imperialism. But we gave it up almost as soon as we had begun, not because we could not have exploited an empire, but because the American democracy will not and cannot rule over alien peoples.

Complaint Is That U. S. Doesn't Use Its Power

It can be affirmed also without any unwarranted self-righteousness that we treat our neighbors better than the Axis and Japan treat their neighbors. That we can prove. For all the peoples within reach of the Axis dread its power; what our neighbors fear among us is not our power but the insufficiency of our power and the hesitations and divisions which paralyze our power. We can say with pride that nowhere in the world do the weak and the helpless fear our power; on the contrary, wherever men are still free, and also among the conquered peoples everywhere, the news of our mounting strength is heard with joy and the evidences that we see more clearly are watched with profound emotion.

We know, and the others know, that among our neighbors and among the free peoples the complaint against us is not that we have power and abuse it, but that we have power and do not use it. That is the evidence which we can submit at the bar of history to prove that the order which we represent is something totally different from the new order which these new empires are seeking to establish.

There's Nothing New In Conquest of Weak

As a matter of fact, though they talk about a new order, we have begun to make—imperfectly and inadequately—a new order of the relations of man to man and of peoples with one another. What is there that is new in the conquest of the weak and their subjugation to the will of the conqueror? That is the ancient order of things on this planet, so ancient that civilized man had almost forgotten about it, so ancient that its revival in modern dress has stupefied the imagination of mankind and caused many sincere but illiterate people to think of it as a new discovery.

Ours, on the contrary, is the new order—new not in the trivial sense of having been invented the day before yesterday, but new in the true perspective of history, new as against the eons of man's barbarism and of his tyranny and of his servility. We did not invent this order. We have done something to realize it. The principles of our order are the new principles which first appeared in the conscience of mankind a mere two thousand years ago, and the revelation of man's dignity and of the reign of a higher law and of the uses of charity is the news, the greatest news and perennially the newest news that has ever come to mankind. Only the foolish who do not realize the long duration of time, only the morally blind who do not know the pain and the burden of things, will suppose that because it has been so imperfectly realized in these twenty centuries this new order is not still the newest order. Yet it is the new order, the only order which releases men from the bondage of their unregenerate past, from the tyranny of their instincts, from the squalor of their fears.

This is our order. It was to found this order and to develop it that our forefathers came here. In this order we exist. Only in this order can we live. And this order we intend to maintain. Because it is founded on the universal principle which has ennobled the civilization of the West, it is a spacious order to which, as every day's newspaper testifies, the peoples adhere gladly if they are given the chance. For we do not construct our order with fire and sword. We do not make men homeless and scatter them over the face of the earth. And, therefore, because our order is founded on the free consent of men and of peoples we can say proudly that in spite of all its inefficiencies and corruptions it is the only order which can endure.

State WPA Wants Affidavit Before It Reveals Payroll

Mark Muth, state WPA administrator, says that before you can find out the number of WPA workers and their monthly payroll in Appleton and Outagamie county, you must produce an affidavit "stating in detail the purpose for which you wish to use this information."

Muth said so in a letter received this week by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in reply to a request for this information.

The chamber wished to make a survey on the distribution of government employees in Appleton and the county. From the post office, the state department of taxation, the war department and other federal and state agencies, the chamber received cooperation.

But the request received a different reception at the division of finance of the Works Progress Administration at Madison.

Mr. Muth told the chamber in a 2-paragraph letter that if it presents said affidavit, with details on why the information was being sought, "we will be glad to consider your request."

Analyze Reasons of Voters

For Favoring F.D.R., Willkie

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J.—Even more important than knowing the total number of voters for Roosevelt or for Willkie may be knowing the reasons why people are voting for one candidate or the other—what arguments they give, what qualities in a candidate they single out for praise or censure.

The reasons back of an individual's voting preference cannot be reflected in the cold figures and percentages of the ordinary poll. During recent weeks each voter who has been asked by the Institute whether he is for Roosevelt or Willkie in the presidential election has also been asked why he favors that candidate. The results are interesting and illuminating on many counts.

They indicate, among other things, the extent to which Willkie's support represents a "protest" vote. The three chief reasons, in order of frequency, why the Willkie voters prefer him to Roosevelt all relate to objections against the president or the New Deal, rather than positive qualities in Willkie himself. The results also show that a large part of Roosevelt's popularity is due solely to the fact that there is a war in Europe. In fact, many voters say that if there were no war, they would not be planning to vote for Roosevelt.

Reasons Why Willkie Voters Favor Him

1. Opposition to the third term.
2. The country needs a change—Roosevelt has been in long enough.
3. Opposition to New Deal spending and other policies.

4. Willkie is a successful businessman and a good executive.

5. Roosevelt would get us into war.

6. Willkie would get better results out of business leaders.

only ad analyze reasons 213

Reasons Why Roosevelt Voters Favor Him

1. Roosevelt is the friend of the common man, the champion of the masses.
2. The country has confidence in his ability, training and experience, especially in the handling of foreign affairs.
3. The country shouldn't change leaders when there is war abroad.
4. Third term is less to be feared than an untried and comparatively unknown man in the White House.
5. Willkie knocks the administration too much.

Conspicuously absent from the list of reasons favoring Roosevelt is any mention of his program for rearmament and national defense. A few voters did point to the President's efforts to rearm the country, but it was not one of the major reasons given for supporting him.

Many voters admitted that their support of Roosevelt was definitely related to the conflict abroad. A waitress interviewed in Chillicothe, O., summed up the attitude of the voters when she said:

"If there wasn't a war, I'd say try someone else besides Roosevelt. But he's acquainted with conditions."

Among the hundreds and hundreds of individual comments made by voters in the survey the following are the most typical:

A Kansas businessman says, "I believe Willkie would encourage the goose to lay the golden egg instead of trying to strangle her."

Another Kansan, a salesman, adds: "Willkie will get behind business and that's our solution to recovery."

A toy manufacturer in Sheboygan, Wis., who supports Willkie says that "we must change administrations to prevent war, save our liberties and bring back prosperity."

Among voters who favor Roosevelt the following comments were typical:

"We had a Republican administration once and the country went blocky. I couldn't get a day's work

The Proper Aim in Labor Legislation

Sometime ago in criticism of editorial comment on some passing phase of labor's activities a correspondent wrote the editor urging the idea that labor is a commodity on an economic par with wheat and lumber and to be purchased at such figure as may be fixed by the inexorable law of supply and demand.

No one should deny that this conception of labor is callously brutal. It should, therefore, be avoided if possible. Every instinct generally characterized as friendly and decent revolts against the sight of men underbidding each other for work until the lowest bidder, content to support himself on a crust or a bowl of rice, secures the job.

But it does not follow that if labor is not treated as a commodity it may turn itself into a monopoly in which case it will gradually devour and destroy. The rights and the duties of labor, as well as the rights and duties of other sections of the population, must be considered in the light of reasonable laws intelligently enacted and honestly enforced. It is possible to construct out of the Wagner law something for the workers besides handcuffs wrought for them by Corrozos and Scaleses. Experiment is always justified when logic seems to point to success and when sufficient intellects are in the saddle to make suitable alterations when demanded by the developments of experience.

We would have a very much improved and bettered situation all around if the Wagner law went to work in earnest to rid workers of the bloodsuckers that feed off them and the hoodlums who terrorize them, rob their treasuries and ride the scenic hot-spot railways with the loot. There should be secured for workers in every union the right to a secret ballot both in the choice of officials and in the determination of strikes or other mass attitudes.

We may see the day when there is no such thing as picketing, peaceful or otherwise. We may bet up our gumption sufficiently to put into law and give a fair trial to the proposition that when employers and workers cannot agree, and the workers, free of all gangster influence, vote to strike that the industry will be closed down until after the controversy is settled.

We have observed with interest the adoption of this method by certain industries which made up their minds they would not get into an angry tug of war with their workers. The pickets had nothing to do, the workers had nothing to do and the management had nothing to do. But no one had anything to get mad about either. The situation was loaded with ice instead of hot lava. In most of these cases satisfactory adjustments were soon made. In a few the controversy extended over many months. The number of instances is not sufficient to create a rule but the promise of advantages seemed enough to attempt to go farther with the experiment.

Our critic thinks that since farmers are subject to the law of supply and demand workers should be, too. We must not be understood as saying that the law of supply and demand does not affect and should not affect workers. It is bound to affect them somewhat. All human ingenuity cannot stop injury when a great depression is abroad. But the farmer is a business man, whether he likes it or not. He must take certain chances as do all who have their own plants, do their own planning and turn out their own production. Until our national leaders left their desks to apply their brilliant minds to the settlement of the controversies in the world at large farmers were not sorry that they were farmers. The advantages they secured until the aftermath of World War No. 1 bowled them over are some proof that their position is relatively sound.

If the hoodlums and racketeers are eliminated from their prominent positions in big city labor circles and the worker given the freedom now denied him it is most unlikely that we will hear complaints from any quarter of the population merely because labor is not treated as a commodity to be tossed upon the market along with inanimate things.

These views are directed at the proposition that the aim of labor legislation should be to put workers and employers on as level a basis as possible for bargaining purposes. Workers justly treated, and with fair pay envelopes, will never do the farmers any harm.

Willkie Wants People To Decide War Issue

In Connecticut Tuesday Mr. Willkie said that if he were elected president, "this country won't go to war until the people say they want war."

Now we are getting the issue into sharp and simple form.

What is the public sentiment of this country in regard to the war toward which Mr. Roosevelt has been rushing us pell-mell?

Public sentiment, coolly and deliberately formed, is the great moving force that must be ultimately victorious else the people do not rule.

Public sentiment is not always right, and often needs advice and direction, but when it is jerked out of its course or deliberately sidetracked by those in power barbarism and oppression are invited to take its place, and ignorance and superstition reign supreme.

War is one of the two dominant issues in this campaign. It is an issue that cannot be avoided. But it is proper for us to ask ourselves why, when most of the rest of the world is in a rage and wading through pools of human blood, gasping under the load of taxation and gnawed at by approaching starvation, we must fling ourselves into the useless fray and join the parade to hell.

Mr. Willkie has given his word. His word is not lightly given. It is the word of a man who learned about war elsewhere than at a cinema or over a mahogany desk.

The Public Service Commission Is Alert

A recent order entered by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission was one of the quickest and smartest in the public interest that has been made by any public body in ever so long.

Confronted with the proposition of natural gas entry into the state, undecided until after long and painstaking study whether the granting of permission would be in the public interest, and facing for the first time the legal proposition whether it could if it desired prevent the entry of the pipes from Kansas, the commission made an overnight march and a flank attack at dawn in perfect Stonewall Jackson style. It entered an order that no gas company in the state would change the contents of the gas now furnished to each home without the Commission's approval. Concededly it has the right to make this order since it has control over the quality, and even the chemical contents, of the articles furnished by public service corporations. And since natural gas companies cannot enter the cities where operating gas companies already hold franchises the circle is complete.

Too often bodies like the Public Service Commission, vested with the responsibility of protecting extensive public interests, are snail-like in foreseeing how they may easily hold the fort. But the fellows who thought out this maneuver in order to be able to study the natural gas problem in a thorough and deliberate manner certainly have no moss on their backs.

A Close Call, but What's Ahead?

"I have never sought to prevent men from joining any association—religious, racial, political or social. No one who believes in American freedom would do that."

Thus Mr. Ford started the pamphlet which was circulated among Ford workers and in which he advanced his opinion upon the disadvantages to them of joining a CIO or other union.

We are not now concerned with whether Mr. Ford is correct or not in his union stand. The debate upon that proposition would extend endlessly.

But we are confronted by the fact that an octopus-like bureaucracy in the form of the National Labor Relations Board actually reached out to inflict a harsh penalty upon this man because of the issuance of his opinion. It seems incredible. But such is the fact. This bureaucracy was supported by the language in an act of congress.

Look at that scene again, gaze upon its venomous features, and reflect upon its horrible possibilities. For it took place in the United States under an act which the administration would not consent to amend.

True, the circuit court of appeals has voided the Board's action upon the ground that it is in violation of the Bill of Rights and that Mr. Ford cannot be thus deprived of his guarantee of free speech. But the case is not over. The arrogant Labor Board is looking with hope to the supreme court at Washington. If the court there was not exactly packed it was at least loaded. And one vote on the court should be secure for the board. Kluxers never thought a great deal of free speech while they were lashing their victims or bashing in their heads.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington — A furious behind-the-scenes struggle preceded the publication of that joint statement by fifteen outstanding citizens assailing Herbert Hoover's plan to feed Nazi-conquered Europe. The ex-president made a terrific effort to squench it.

The statement was initiated by Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, president of Union Theological seminary, to counter Hoover's efforts to line up influential clergymen for his scheme—a scheme which he is pushing without the approval of either the U. S. or British governments.

The statement was distributed in advance for publication in Sunday morning papers, and Hoover, in some way, got wind of it. Whereupon he literally moved heaven and earth to stop it.

He first bombarded the fifteen signers by telephone and telegram to get them to withdraw their names. When this failed, he contacted several newspapers and press associations with protests against the declaration.

One New York morning paper called up Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, a signer, and said they had been informed her name was unauthorized. Mrs. Catt indignantly denied this.

Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, received a similar inquiry, which he repudiated. In one way or another everyone of the fifteen signers had his name challenged and all stood firm. Dr. Coffin was so aroused by these tactics that he sent Hoover a sizzling letter which concluded as follows:

"While you say in your telegram, that your proposal is 'conditional upon such safeguards as would be no injury to the British cause,' I happen to know from the highest sources that this apparently is not the way in which the British government views this. Inasmuch as Britain is in my judgment fighting our battles, I think we owe it to them not to do anything to embarrass them."

Note—Hoover's plan is to set up U. S. corporations to buy food with the funds of the conquered countries on deposit here, and transport the supplies in American ships. American experts estimate that there is ample food in Europe to feed everybody this winter, providing it is equitably distributed by the Nazis—who, however, have requisitioned everything they could lay their hands on and shipped it to Germany.

GERMAN OCCUPATION
Intelligence reports from Europe indicate that it is not the German army but German civilians in France who are causing trouble. These reports state that the Nazis already have begun to create their vaunted unification of Europe and their reduction of France to a mere agricultural state.

Following the conquering Nazi armies, there came German civilians in numbers almost as great. They settled down in evacuated French homes and began to operate abandoned French shops and factories—and to take over others which had not been abandoned. All this in the vital industrial area of north France.

Reports about the conduct of Germans in France make a sharp distinction between the German military and civilian elements. Little complaint was heard of the conduct of the German military, but when the Gestapo and the Brown Shirts followed, together with civilian groups for the management of industry, real friction developed.

British victory over Germany would require not only success in slaving off invasion but also driving the Germans out of the Low Countries and France—and this means not only the German soldiers, but the hordes of civilians who have taken over management of French industry as if it were their own.

CAPITAL CHAFF
Judge Walton Moore, courtly, 81-year-old counselor of the state department, soon will retire to his palatial estate in nearby Virginia. Selected because he was a close friend of Cordell Hull in the House of Representatives, his place probably will not be filled. . . . Kindly Chilean Ambassador Cabero soon will resign. He has not been a great success in Washington. . . . Super-sleuth J. Edgar Hoover, who has solved many a thorny crime problem, is a collector of cactus plants. Several of them decorate his office, also his home. . . . Pressure by the state department has caused the National Defense commission to order a supply of diamonds from Brazil. This will be part of the "stock pile" of emergency materials to be accumulated in this country in case of war, since diamonds are essential for drills and machine tools. The defense commission wanted to buy them from South Africa, but the state department intervened in favor of a Pan-American neighbor. . . . Congressman Jack Dempsey, defeated in the race to become senator from New Mexico, is angling for the job of WPA administrator or U. S. housing administrator, replacing Nathan Straus, who never could get along on Capitol Hill.

INVOLUNTARY REHEARSAL
Defense Commissioner William Knudsen is extremely busy, but he made a speech the other night to a one-man audience.

Scheduled to address the Conference Board, a New York organization of business men, Knudsen was so pressed for time in the capital that he was unable to get away to Manhattan. Hurriedly it was arranged for him to make the talk by long distance phone and loudspeaker.

At the appointed time, Knudsen was plugged in and from his desk he read his fifteen-minute speech. When he finished he hung up and resumed work. But a moment later his secretary burst in all excited.

"There's been a terrible mix-up somewhere," he cried. "They just called me from New York and wondered what had happened to your speech. It didn't come over the loud speaker."

"Well," laughed Knudsen, "I know I delivered it. The telephone operator can testify to that."

"Yes, I checked with the operator. You made the speech all right but the man at the other end somehow didn't plug it in to the loud speaker. He was the only one who heard the talk. They want to know if you will make it over again."

"Sure," said Knudsen, "the other time was a good rehearsal. I'll do a lot better. Fix up the connection."

FRENCH FLEET
U. S. naval observers abroad have picked up some worrisome reports of German plans to take over the French fleet and use it in conjunction with the Italian and Nazi fleets against the British.

The French still have some powerful cruisers, most of them stationed at the key naval base of Dakar on the bulge of West Africa.

So far, almost nothing has been heard of the Italian fleet, and its chief activity seems to be dodging the British fleet in the Mediterranean. However, should the remainder of the French fleet be added to the Italian and German navies, the British would face a serious menace.

This combined fleet might also be disastrous for South America and the Monroe Doctrine. The Germans plan to use Dakar, according to intelligence reports, first to disrupt British shipping to India, Australia and New Zealand which now must pass around the Cape of Good Hope; second as a hopping-off place to South America;—if and when their European troubles are over. A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT
Washington—Just what the army is up to, the army isn't telling these days. But it certainly has reversed itself by going in for voluntary enlistments in a big way in the face of the impending draft.

The recent order making it possible for young men to enlist for one year, and making those enlistments count on selective service quotas, is exactly opposite to what the army did in the World War. Then it suspended entirely the privilege of voluntary enlistment.

Although it's off-the-record talk, some army officials already have said that the result will be that in many districts, not a single young man will be called on the first call and possibly in some not in the first quota.

A quick survey of the figures will explain why this is a certainty. The first quota, between November and January, is 400,000 men. This means approximately one-fourth of total estimated number of registrants from 21 to 35 years old.

In other words, if one young man in your neighborhood enlists, that eliminates 40 from the first quota, and more than one in 200 from the first call due within a few weeks after registration.

Change Of Opinion
The army issued its recent order without explanation. The order not only represents an about face from World War draft theories but also a reversal of opinions given before congressional committees during hearings on the selective service bill, when army officials told congressmen that voluntary enlistment would not fill requirements of an army of nearly a million men.

What has happened, however, is just what the men behind selective service anticipated. Once the "threat" of a draft measure became a reality, voluntary enlistments jumped sky high.

In New York City, police had to be called out to keep the would-be soldiers in line and prevent their snarling traffic around recruiting stations.

The applicants went through at the rate of 100 an hour.

New York is not a typical city by any means, but if every young man applying for enlistment were found to be physically, mentally and morally fit for service (which they couldn't possibly be, of course) New York City could fill the first quota for the entire state in a little more than eight weeks.

The trouble about voluntary enlistment is that it moves in irregular tides.

Today it may take a battalion of police to handle the applicants. Tomorrow, the most persuasive recruiting officer won't get a recruit.

Trouble In World War
About one-third of the more than 4,000,000 men in all military forces during the World War enlisted before enlistments were cut off in the closing months of the war.

But the trouble was that they came in waves and so upset the selective service mechanism that, before 1918 was well along, army officials had no way of estimating what they would get on a draft call.

The situation, however, did not arise until Class I was nearing exhaustion and probably could not arise under the Burke-Wadsworth bill, unless some need arose for greatly increasing the armed forces beyond a million.

In the meantime, say the sideline experts, the army is going to have a throw at the psychological effect of letting the boys enlist under requirements and for a term of service that are no more stringent than if they waited for their selective service call.

GALLUP TAKES JOHNSON'S CHALLENGE
Editor Post-Crescent — General Hugh Johnson, in an attack on the Gallup Poll, has offered to eat his syndicated column if the poll is correct in forecasting the election in November. I accept the General's offer and will be knocking on his door the morning after election to hold him to his promise if the poll is right.

Both General Johnson and I write for newspapers, but he is a columnist and I am the conductor of a poll. As conductor of a poll, I can only be seriously wrong once. If in any election I make a mistake like the one committed by the Literary Digest, I may be as extinct as that publication.

But a columnist may be seriously wrong as to his facts—he may be seriously wrong as to his assumptions—he may even be seriously wrong as to his prediction of events or forthcoming elections, yet the public will continue to read his column and, in fact, the column may even be more interesting because of the mistakes committed.

There has never been a time when the Institute has not been criticized by persons supporting the candidate who is behind. What the General says about us sounds a good deal like what the astounded editors of the now defunct Literary Digest said about us in 1936.

The Institute does not claim to be infallible. In fact, it has constantly stressed the margin of error which is inherent in any work which involves the sampling process. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the Institute has never erred in 5 years time in predicting correctly the winner of any election.

Oil for the Lamps of Goering

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison—Some observers, taking note of various signs which are beginning to appear, are predicting that the next legislature will once more encounter the sales tax proposal which was turned down after a short period of indecision, by its 1939 predecessor.

It isn't likely, of course, that the sales tax will be introduced and seriously considered on its own merits. There has been too much political agitation against it for that. The sales tax has a bad name in Wisconsin.

What is probable, however, is that it will be trotted out in new dress, as a sale tax with another name and for a benevolent purpose. That purpose in all likelihood will be as a substitute for onerous property tax levies.

REASONS
There are a number of reasons for the probability that disguised as a property tax relief measure the sales tax may go far in the legislature.

In the first place, every politician is constantly advocating the reduction of property tax levies, but he never delivers. If there is a chance that a sales tax as an alternative to property taxes will get public support, the legislative politicians will bite eagerly.

Secondly, a couple of the most potent lobbying forces in the state are anxiously pressing for local tax relief. They are the League of Wisconsin Municipalities and the Wisconsin County Boards association. They want more state aids, and lower local taxation, and they aren't fussy about how their demands are achieved.

The Wisconsin County Boards association asked the last legislature to consider some form of a sales tax rebate system in order to lighten local property taxes and enable the state treasury to remove the tremendous burden of direct relief upon local government budgets by increasing state relief funds. The association particularly suggested careful study of the Indiana gross income tax plan.

Currently the League is furnishing broad hints of its intentions. Some time ago it asked the Wisconsin Taxpayers' Alliance to analyze the Iowa sales tax plan, which is combined with a homestead tax exemption scheme. This week it is giving the Iowa system a prominent place in the discussions at its annual convention in Milwaukee.

RECOLLECTION
Moreover, the odds today are in favor of a reelection of the Heil administration, and that administration has already revealed its attitude on the subject.

Heil's office during the last session of the legislature sponsored a sales tax plan, coupled with a credit system which would allow localities to enjoy a part of the proceeds to replace grossly heavy property assessments. The administration, although defeated in 1939, has never renounced the proposal, and it is possible that it will be introduced again. The Republican state platform this year makes no specific reference to revenue measures or policies, although it pledges taxation based upon the principle of ability to pay, a principle which some experts maintain can never be realized through sales taxation, it is a phrase which is also subject to varying interpretations.

The League, for example, has given

Personal Health Talks

A CHILD SWALLOWS PIN
Buttons, keys, marbles, whistles, coins, small rubber gadgets, celluloid doll heads, metal toys, jacks, pencils, pens, screws, button pins, bobby pins, straight pins, safety pins, safety pins open and closed are among the foreign bodies commonly swallowed by infants or children.

In a series of 41 cases over a period of ten years it was found unnecessary to operate on any child for removal of such foreign body, at the Bellevue Hospital children's surgical service.

When not interfered with, the gastro-intestinal tract has an extraordinary ability to take care of such swallowed objects even open safety pins or similar sharp or irregular objects.

The first mistake parents or well-meaning friends or advisers often make is to administer an emetic or to attempt to induce vomiting by other means, in the hope of causing the child to emit the object swallowed.

The second mistake is giving a laxative or cathartic in the hope of forcing the object thru the alimentary tract and causing the child to eject it from the bowel.

Watchful waiting is the best policy. Average time required for any foreign body to pass from the bowel is 42 days. Sometimes it may not pass until two or three weeks. Meanwhile, if the child presents no unusual symptoms there is nothing else to be done but wait and watch.

X-ray examination, of course, may give some idea of the size, nature and position of the foreign body, but generally it is foolish to go to the expense, unless it is advised by the attending physician.

No physician need attend the ordinary case of a foreign body in stomach or intestine. Just wait. But every stool must be carefully examined to make sure to detect the body when it is expelled.

The diet recommended for such cases by Dr. George W. Boot many years ago was described: "Have the child eat a good-sized bowl of mixed vegetables—cabbage, green beans, celery, carrots, etc. The vegetables should not be cooked soft, some of them may even be given raw or nearly so, and they should be swallowed without much mastication, washed down with water if necessary."

To that suggestion J. O'F. Dec Brady, would add one wish ought to win the many vote, namely, feed the child a much more benign as he will eat several times daily. Even if the child does not like it, other food, a straight banana diet will supply what is needed to favor harmless passage of the foreign body besides maintaining the best degree of nutrition.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Molasses
What difference is there between molasses and corn syrup in food value? (E. S.)
Answer—Corn syrup yields about 1500 calories per pound. Molasses about 1300 calories per pound. Molasses contains some calcium and some iron. Corn syrup contains practically none. Molasses has greater sweetening value.

An Economic Royalist Has to Pay for a Lot of Fancy Stuff

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—An economic royalist of my acquaintance, a widow who supports herself and her 19-year-old daughter, who is a college student, spent half a day making out her income tax return for 1939 and sent it in, with a check for the whole amount—about $145.

A few days ago this lady got a note from the collector demanding that she bring her books and records and submit to a searching review for the year in question, failing to do which she would make herself liable to certain penalties.

The citizen says she has paid her tax and is too busy to spend half a day going over the details, but the collector's deputy insists. This irritates the taxpayer, and she has put herself into a mood to go storming into the collector's office with a question of her own as follows: "What have you done with my $145, and how much of it has gone for graft, gravy, luxuries and waste?"

Now, of course, her $145 wasn't earmarked, but, inasmuch as it went into the big, general pool or sink-hole, it may be explained, for her satisfaction, if not for her pleasure, that it was spent in part as follows: To pay salaries to Communists in the late theater project or in the writers' projects.

For the car and chauffeur thereof provided for the official and personal use of Harold F. Ickes, for his rest cure in the United States Naval hospital and for his vacation cruise in company with Harry Hopkins, aboard a cutter of the United States Coast guard, along the pleasure coast of Florida.

For the weed-grown gully which was to have been a ship canal across Florida and for the abandoned tidal dams and the postcard village of Quoddy, at Eastport, Me.

To pay part of the salaries of Will Lyons, at $5,000 a year, and Theodore Bilbo, at that time a bused Mississippi politician, at $8,000 a year, for pasting newspaper clippings in scrapbooks, and of Tom Heflin, the old political delinquent from Alabama, who also appealed to the pity of the bleeding-heart humanitarians and was given a post of equal utility in the national administration. Mr. Bilbo, now a senator, candidly admitted that he was given his $6,000 a year because he was broke and had a political nuisance power.

Jimmy Roosevelt Got Part of Income Tax

To pay the salary of Jimmy Roosevelt, the cadet, at $10,000 a year, plus service pay as a lieutenant colonel of the marine corps reserve.

To pay a cousin of the president $6,000 a year and expenses to pretty American embassies and legations in foreign lands.

To pay the salary of $200 a month and allowances, up to $116 a month of Elliott Roosevelt, whose conscience guided him into the army with the rank of captain.

To pay the salaries of hundreds of press agents and admission fees, at $75 a head, of American citizens who are compelled to join the carpenter's union ere they are permitted to build new army camps. Part of this year's $145 probably went to take up the deficit in the national income represented by the failure of Joseph P. Guffey, the New Deal senator from Pennsylvania, to pay his own income taxes in the amount of $4,165 in 1921 and 1923. This arrearage has been outlawed by the statute of limitations, and the lady toy in question doubtless wonders why her taxes, too, cannot be settled by the painless and inexpensive process of outlawry.

Part of it has gone to pay the cost of being nice to the children of other citizens who are eligible for government assistance up to the age of 25, while her own child, although still dependent, is doomed by law to be self-supporting because she has passed 18. Up to that time the taxpayer could deduct $400 a year for her support.

She Has Dependent But It Makes No Difference

And, finally, a portion of her $145 has been spent to support the unemployed, although she is not permitted to deduct anything for the support of a dependent aunt, because the aunt is neither too old nor too ill to work, but just unqualified for any painful employment and but for our taxpayer's sense of decency and duty would be on the public rolls herself.

These are some of the purposes for which her $145 was spent and to which the additional $5.68 or $12.72 will be put after the New Deal politician in the internal revenue has consumed another half-day of her time and disallowed her figures. This princess of privilege is a surly wench who angrily resents having to provide the more abundant life for members of the communist party, the Roosevelt family, scrapbook keepers, other people's full-grown kids and their destitute aunts, Ickes, Hopkins, the press agents and Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, while denied any allowance for the support of her dependent kin.

Job Office Budget Same as Last Year

Fred Gehrke, manager of the Appleton office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service, is the first to submit a departmental budget to City Clerk E. E. Sager this year.

Gehrke's budget, half of which will be paid by the county board, is the same as last year, $1,670. The budget lists the following expenses: telephone service, $301.26; telephone operator, $128.64; rent, $900; light, $120; janitor, $180; supplies, $60; equipment, $25; repairs, $25; advertising, $120; and miscellaneous, $10.

Warns Drivers About Overloading Trucks

Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad today warned truckers against driving their trucks with overloads. A number of complaints have been received that some truckers are hauling loads of beet in excess of their licensed weight limits. Arrests will be made, Captain Steidl said, if truckers do not remain within the limits permitted by their licenses.

Over 1,000,000 people visited Moscow's Agricultural Show in the first month.

now tank factories have to be built that would have been under way long ago if the administration had settled the amortization question and given out what are termed educational orders to industry.

"On powder and explosives," says Mr. Knudsen, "the status is about like this—we have located two powder plants; two high explosive plants; five loading plants; two ammonia plants—a total of eleven and we have five more projected. I need not tell you that the powder question was awfully late in getting started and it is of the greatest importance that this time we keep the plants after we get them going. After the last war, as far as I have been able to learn, nearly all the plants were dismantled and no thought was given to future requirements, which might well have been fatal. While I am on this subject I need not stress to you all that regardless of how world affairs shape themselves the coming year, let us for heaven's sake, finish this job while we are about it and not get caught again with no powder, no airplanes and no tanks."

Pleaded With President

But in the last seven years since Herr Hitler has been in power, and especially since Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the war industries board, conferred with President Roosevelt in October 1938 and pleaded with him to get America's defenses going and certain important war materials assembled, there has been sheer neglect in Washington.

The worst of it is that there is no sign that the lessons taught by these delays have been heeded. Defense is still in charge of dilettante New Deal agencies and the business men who have come here have no real authority. There isn't even a chairman of the defense commission or a coordinator in chief of the defense program except President Roosevelt, who is also running for a third term and could not possibly give the time and attention to the details of the defense program that they deserve. He has been absent from Washington more days than he has been here and has spent time on "inspection" trips that might have better been spent in removing the obstacles to the building of new plants and factories.

But the political side comes first here, and after seven years of political priority, it is probably too much to expect that it can be side-tracked in favor of real defense unless there is a change in administration. America hasn't enough powder available today to carry on one week of the kind of bombing now going on over either Germany or Britain, and has less first-line combat planes than one-third of the equivalent of Germany's losses since the blitzkrieg began.

Sons, Daughters Gather for Reunion as Appleton Pair Observes 40th Anniversary

From places as far apart as San Diego, Calif., and Niagara Falls, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. John Kettenhofen's children came to Appleton for their parents' fortieth wedding anniversary Thursday. Louis Kettenhofen and his wife and two children came from Niagara Falls for the celebration, and George Kettenhofen and his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Arthur Brierley, came from San Diego for the occasion.

Three other children, Mrs. Elmer Rehner and Walter Kettenhofen, Appleton, and Mrs. Jack Hohenfeld, Menasha, also were present. Another daughter, Mrs. Ray Paust, Gary, Ind., was unable to come. In addition to the six children, the Kettenhofens have 11 grandchildren, all of whom were present.

After a dinner and supper at their home, 609 S. Locust street, the Kettenhofens entertained 75 guests at a reception and dance from 8 to 1 o'clock last evening at Hotel Appleton. A buffet supper was served at 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Kettenhofen were married Oct. 10, 1900, at St. Joseph's church.

American Legion will sponsor a dance for members and friends Saturday night at the clubhouse. Clifford Rader, chairman of the house committee, is in charge.

WAGNERIAN PRIMA DONNA—The role of Elsa in "Lohengrin" was the first operatic role learned by Kirsten Flagstad, and that was at the age of 10 when she began singing for her own amusement. Madame Flagstad, by her own account, has sung 68 roles, not taking into consideration her numerous song recitals and solo appearances with orchestras and oratorios.

Kirsten Flagstad Will Sing At Lawrence Chapel Nov. 15

Kirsten Flagstad who will appear at the audition and she got the part, and two months later she made her debut. She recalls that she had already grown to full height, and in order to give the impression of being a child she was obliged to move around stooping and crouching.

She then went to study in Stockholm under Dr. Gillis Bratt, and on the side took dancing and "plastics," the closest definition of what seems to be what not to do with the hands and feet. She returned home the following year for her second role, Germaine in "The Chimes of Normandy."

By her own account she has sung 68 roles, 28 in grand opera and 30 in operettas and comic opera, not counting innumerable song recitals and appearances as soloist with orchestras and in oratorio performances.

Although her parents had no intention of having Kirsten make music a profession, her mother made it clear to her that there was no escape from practicing. However, no amount of compulsion could make the child pay any attention to theory, harmony and counterpoint, and to this day she has retained a distaste for them.

Her beginning as a singer was largely accidental. At the age of 10 she began, of her own volition, to study the role of Elsa in "Lohengrin," and she learned it all uncut. Then she added another role, Aida. She first sang operatic arias from these operas at a confirmation party given in her honor, and a musical friend told her she would soon ruin her voice if she did not develop it properly. This friend offered to give the child a few lessons, these largely in the nature of proper placement and breathing. Formal vocal lessons, however, did not begin until she was 16, and then she studied with Ellen Schytte-Jacobsen in Oslo.

Debut at 18

She was barely 18 when her mother projected her into an opera role. Fru Flagstad had been present at an audition at which the conductor of the Oslo Opera expressed dissatisfaction over the candidate for the role of the little girl Nuri in D'Albert's "Tieflied," and on the way home she stopped at a music store, bought a score of the opera and gave it to her daughter, telling her that if she learned it in two days she could try out for the role. Kirsten was the thirteenth candidate.

Less Privileged Children Will Get Tickets to Plays

The problem of providing tickets for the Clare Tree Major children's plays this season for less privileged children who have not the means of providing for themselves is being met by the sponsoring committee by asking public spirited persons to become sustaining members of the undertaking by paying $2 per year. One such membership will send nine children to one play. However, the committee headed by Mrs. Edward Zeiss, 62 Bellaire court, will welcome any contribution, large or small, for 25 cents will buy a ticket for one child for a play, and 90 cents will purchase a season ticket for all plays.

Last season the committee was able to provide seven tickets for each public and parochial school for each play, and the orthopedic students and children from the deaf and opportunity rooms were given tickets to all three plays. Although approximately 175 free tickets were distributed for each play, the committee was able to care for only a fraction of the list handed in by the teachers, and therefore this year they are making a special effort to solicit contributions for this purpose.

Pastor Talks On Values at Club Meeting

Failure to place the proper evaluation on human life is responsible for much of the trouble in the world today, the Rev. C. H. Zeidler, pastor of the Trinity English Lutheran church, told members of Appleton Woman's club at their meeting yesterday afternoon at the clubhouse. He scored the theory that the strong is the only one fit to survive, stating that this idea fails to take into consideration greatness of spirit and strength of character such as displayed by the blind Helen Keller.

Pointing to the chemical makeup of the human body which has a money value of about 98 cents, the Rev. Mr. Zeidler said that all the gold in the world, all the crown jewels and gems would not be a fair exchange for one human life. He pointed to such personalities as Miranda and Octavia Hill, workers among the slum dwellers in London, John Howard, sheriff of Bedford, England, who instituted jail reform, and Booker T. Washington who worked to elevate the Negro as examples of those who have placed a high value on human life. The speaker attacked divorce, legalized abortion and mercy killings, and war as the results of not placing a proper value on life, and he read a letter to a judge, written by a mother whose child had been killed by a speeding driver, showing the anguish caused by too little concern for a life.

Preceding the talk Mrs. A. A. Krabbe sang two selections, "Misanthropy" by Foster and "Ships That Pass in the Night" by Stephenson. Mrs. L. J. Boyle played the accompaniment. About 65 women attended the meeting which opened with the serving of dessert in buffet style. Mrs. Franklin J. Grist was chairman and her committee consisted of Mrs. C. J. West, Mrs. D. N. Carlson, Mrs. Hattie En-

Yom Kippur, a day set aside for the individual to commune with his God, to repent of his sins and to atone for any wrongs done to himself or his fellow men during the year, will be observed by Appleton Jews beginning at sundown tonight and continuing through Saturday. Known also as the Day of Atonement, the day is observed by orthodox, conservative and reform Jews throughout the world as a day of fasting, prayer and meditation.

Kol Nidre, a prayer set to music, opens the synagogue service on the eve of the holiday. First mentioned in the ninth century, the musical portion was written in medieval Germany. Established in the latter days of the second Temple as "The Great Day" in the Jewish year, Yom Kippur still retains many of its early prayers and observances. The blowing of the shofar, a ram's horn, and a memorial service for the dead are parts of the all-day synagogue service.

At Zion temple, corner of Durkee and Harris streets, there will be services at 7:30 this evening and again at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. A memorial service will be held at 3:30 Saturday afternoon. Rabbi Mortimer Goodman, Cincinnati, Ohio, will be in charge of services.

The Kol Nidre service marking the beginning of the feast of Yom Kippur at Moses Montefiore synagogue will take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon when Rabbi Ralph De Koven will speak on "Facing Reality." The all-day observance tomorrow will begin with a service at

Guard Company, Band Guests at Legion Dinner

Colonels Beveridge, Dryer are Speakers At Send-Off Banquet

There was a lot of laughter and wise cracks and measures of "Roll Out The Barrel", but there were serious moments, too, when the young guardsmen and artillery band members recognized the task that lies ahead of them.

The older men, the American Legion members, felt just a little older last night as they looked over the assemblage of youth in the post clubhouse and recalled the day, more than 20 years ago, when they trooped off with the Appleton company, off to duty on the Mexican border and, many of them, later to France.

The Appleton company, in 1940, was preparing not for war, but for a year's intensive training in the southland, and the World War veterans at last night's American Legion banquet in honor of Company D of the 127th infantry, Wisconsin National Guard, and the 120th Field Artillery band, showed by their words and action how thankful they were that peaceful drills and not battles lie ahead of the boys.

There was really no attempt on the part of any speaker to put across a "stirring message". The men who have known what actual war is like spoke plainly, often facetiously, but they spoke earnestly when they said: "We're 100 per cent behind you."

Immel Absent

Adjutant General Ralph Immel, commander of the Wisconsin National Guard, found the work at his Madison office too pressing to allow him to attend last night's banquet. Speaking in his stead were Colonel Byron Beveridge, of the adjutant general's office, and Lieutenant Colonel Olin G. Dryer, Kaukauna, of the reserve officers.

Colonel Beveridge, formerly of Appleton, told the guard units that "good mess", athletics, and a band were perhaps the best builders of army morale and declared: "May this company make a reputation like Appleton men made in service in the Spanish war and the World war."

Colonel Dryer, quoting a telephone conversation he had with General Immel, said the general expects "That the Fox river valley again will be leaders in recruiting and will furnish the best soldiers in Wisconsin."

Pointing to the manner in which dictators have made the youth of their countries their strongest supporters, Colonel Dryer asserted: "The appeal of American democracy to our youth is far greater than the appeal of any dictatorship."

During the dinner, the guardsmen and bandmen kept up a spirited barrage of songs and quips, but they listened attentively to the speakers and applauded them lustily. Company D has a membership now of 127, with an authorized strength of 127, with an authorized strength of 127, with an authorized strength of 127.

Pietie, Thompson Present
Both Captain H. J. Pietie, commander of Company D, and Warrant Officer Orville J. Thompson, band director, were present and were introduced at the meeting.

John E. Hantschel, chairman for the banquet, presided. He was assisted on the committee by August Arens, James Balliet, Paul Wilke, and Arthur Bunk.

Erik L. Madisen spoke in behalf of Mayor John Goodland, Jr., unable to be present because of a Milwaukee meeting. The mayor in his letter to the guardsmen said: "We all feel grateful to the young men who have volunteered to give their services to their country. We are thankful that you are going out in time of peace and not in time of war."

Other guests at the banquet all of whom were introduced and some of whom spoke, were as follows: Oney Johnston post, Colonel Hugh Pomeroy, Colonel A. M. Mixson, Major Charles A. Green, Mike Mack, chairman of the Outagamie county board of supervisors, Armin B. Scheuer, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Rev. Descomb Forbush, Captain Raymond P. Dohr of the reserve officers, John R. Riedl, Charles Baker, Captain Claude P. Schroeder, Frank Bell, and H. H. Heible, principal of Appleton high school.

Letters from Luther Graef, commander of the Appleton company during the World war, and Colonel Edward J. Schmidt of Manitowish who were unable to attend were read at the banquet.

Greatest Threats to Nation Inside Border, Barrows Says

America's greatest danger lies within her borders, Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence college, said in a convocation talk yesterday morning at Memorial chapel.

Democracy is more likely to collapse through internal weakness rather than to be overthrown by exterior forces, the Lawrence president said.

"As a people we have grown soft, spiritually and mentally, in groups as well as individuals," he told Lawrence students. "We have substituted a search for security for a love of liberty. Americans don't want anything now but luxury, and it is obtained by mortgaging the future."

"The future is going to be harder because of what we do today, because of our own softness and short-sightedness. We have learned to do things the easy way and resent any need to exert mental perspiration fibres. We have created a hard future for ourselves, but we have failed to create a healthy, strong character, personality and mind. We will need to build a new world, more virile and more lasting than any we have yet achieved."

Washington's Address Theme of Movie Film

Washington's Farewell address to the American people served as the theme for the motion picture, "Year of Dark Contrast-1939," which was shown in the assembly of Appleton High school Thursday afternoon.

The voice of an unseen father explained to his son how the message of the retiring president was as applicable today as it was in the eighteenth century.

Ted Husing, sports commentator, propounded and answered 14 questions about the sports world in another short. Students had the opportunity to see scenes from almost all of the sports common today.

Frank Buck proved that the chimpanzee is the most versatile of all athletes in another picture entitled "Chimp Champs." The chimps amused the audience with their antics in the boxing ring and at the sidelines.

Zwicker Will Speak Over Radio Tonight
Dewey Zwicker, president of Zwicker Knitting Mills, will speak from 8 o'clock to 8:15 tonight over WHBY on the mobilization for public understanding of private enterprise.

Mr. Zwicker's speech will be the second in a series of speeches being given over the Appleton station during this month in a campaign sponsored by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Seymour Gmeiner, secretary and treasurer of the Appleton Wood Products company, opened the series this week.

Milwaukee to be Draft Hub After Registration

Lieutenant Colonel James A. Summersett, in charge of army recruiting at Milwaukee, was notified today that Milwaukee would be an induction center for young men conscripted after draft registration Oct. 16.

He said Milwaukee would have an induction board and would supervise stations at Wausau, Madison, Eau Claire, in Wisconsin, and Escanaba, in Michigan.

Wisconsin men conscripted will receive their preliminary training at Fort Custer, Mich., or Fort Sheridan, Ill., Summersett was informed. Draft officials for Appleton and Outagamie county marked time, more or less, today pending a meeting of chief registrars this afternoon with John E. Hantschel, director for registration in the county.

Hantschel, however, started the registration machinery rolling at Lawrence college where about 200 youths are expected to register. The college faculty will have charge of the work, Hantschel said.

A copy of President Roosevelt's official proclamation designating Oct. 16 as registration day throughout the nation was received by Hantschel today and will be posted at the courthouse. Large copies of the registration card, telling of the exact information needed, will be posted at all registration places.

Each to Get Bulletin
E. E. Sager, city clerk, who has charge of registration in Appleton, said a bulletin of information about conscription will be given to each man who registers Oct. 16 so that he will know all about selective service. He also will be given a card proving that he has registered.

Following the meeting of municipal clerks and registrars this afternoon at the courthouse, Werner Witte, president of the Appleton Education association, Sager and Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, will meet with chief registrars of Appleton, probably the school principals. A final meeting of all those participating in registration probably will be held Monday.

Appleton's 180 teachers, headed by the school administration and Sager, will act as clerks for the draft and the public schools have been designated as registration places. Registration districts are marked by ward lines.

Rural school teachers and schools may be used in the registration at the discretion of the local school boards. H. J. Van Straten, county superintendent of schools, announced yesterday.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building stood at 60 degrees. The minimum for the 24-hour period was 51 at 7 o'clock this morning. Last night's rain measured .12 of an inch.

The weather forecast for the period from Friday night to Wednesday night is as follows:

Region of the Great Lakes: Temperature will average above normal with no very cool weather during period. Precipitation, in the form of occasional light showers, except quite light precipitation southern Lake Michigan area.

Upper Mississippi valley: Temperature will average above normal with no unusually cold weather during period. Little or no precipitation except for occasional light showers northern Minnesota.

Defense Needs Offer Test Of U. S. Production Ability

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—We are slightly behind schedule on plane production, William S. Knudsen, of the defense advisory commission, says that this month we will produce 900 to 950 planes whereas the schedule called for 1133.

That lag is not great and there is no real anxiety about our ability to catch up with the schedule. But there is real concern over something else—it is that the original schedule will have to be revised upward.

We had planned to be producing about 3,000 planes a month by April of 1942. That schedule probably will have to be increased. Events have shown that it is later than we thought.

The British particularly are pressing for more planes than had been contemplated. They expect to hold through the winter, and during that time they hope to equal or pass German air strength. That can only be done with a very heavy contribution from us. The British purchasing mission is in daily conference with American officials now over upward revision of their purchasing program. The British are confident that if they can get the planes they can not only hold Germany off but turn loose air destruction on Germany, which is the only way in which Britain can take the offensive.

Along with this it is expected that the American public will become increasingly insistent upon greater air strength for us. Certainly the army and navy will demand it in view of the growing tension.

Some within the defense commission feel that our aviation industry is being pushed as hard as it can be, and are giving thought to the possibility of having to make a new departure in order to provide the considerable expansion beyond that originally intended. No policy has been developed but some think that rather bold measures may be advisable. As they explain it, airplane production still is pretty much in the custom-built stage and without the volume technique of the automobile plant. Small plants have been enlarged. It is like the custom tailor with his small shop. Business picks up and he puts on more tailors, but still does the work by hand. It is a larger shop but still a custom-tailoring shop.

In contrast you have the huge garment factory where men's suits are turned out by machines. That is not simply an enlarged custom-tailoring shop but a plant at which the business of making large quantities of suits is approached in an entirely different way. Some are thinking that a fundamental change of process may be necessary, as in the change from making Rolls-Royce automobiles to making Fords or Buicks. That would mean supplementing existing aviation production with huge new plants, differently laid out and equipped with different machinery.

Any such program would encounter many difficulties. There is question whether we have time to do it. More acutely there is the bottleneck of machine-tool production and the bottleneck of engineering and production personnel which already has had to be diluted in order to make possible existing expansion of the industry. There will be the fear of existing aviation industry that surplus equipment will plague them all when the emergency has passed. There is the question of whether the government shall not only finance this work but shall own the properties, and what hand, if any, it shall have in the management.

Those are some of the matters which Knudsen had in mind when he told the army ordnance association in New York this week that there is a school of thought in Washington which feels the government should go into business on a large scale.

On top of all this pressure for additional airplane production is the urgency of other defense production. Then, too, the defense program

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. CORNELIUS A. HARPER
State Health Officer

There seems to be a marked tie-up between a person's attitudes toward health and finances.

Usually a thrifty person avoids habits which tend to tear down his health, while an extravagant person indulges in follies which openly invite physical disaster.

Good habits are as easy to form as bad habits, but a large percentage of us never think of giving good habits a tryout.

Most of us appear willing to break even in both health and economic security, and let the future take care of itself. Under these terms the future invariably takes care of itself, but not of us.

All are in favor of protecting children from harmful habits of all kinds with a view toward useful citizenship, yet when young people reach their majority they are greeted by all manner of subversive invitations to tear down what they already is resulting in a business boom which is stimulating civilian consumer buying rapidly, and this is making demands on production facilities. Steel production has practically reached capacity and the demand is growing daily.

Here briefly are sketched enough high spots to suggest that in the coming months we are facing the severest test of our ability to produce. It is an unprecedented demand, and to meet it we may have to resort to unprecedented methods.

have built up in physical and moral strength.

When we overdraw our checking account our banker not only informs us of the fact without delay, but penalizes us for the error. The family physician, who is our physical banker, cannot be so useful to us under the present scheme of things. As a result, we can overdraw our health account to the extent of helpless physical bankruptcy before even asking him how our health balance stands, and often that is too late.

We are famed as an athletic nation, but most of our adult amateurs top off their building-up sessions on golf course or bowling alley with tearing-down sessions, glass in hand.

A truly thrifty person keeps a substantial balance not only in the bank but in his physique as well.

Fight Against Blister Rust Ends With Frost

Heavy frosts in northern Wisconsin have brought to a close another season's campaign against white pine blister rust, according to a bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus from the college of agriculture.

During the 1940 season over 15,000 acres of white pine received its first protection from this deadly fungus disease.

The state department of agriculture reports that more than four million currant and gooseberry bushes were removed during the season from nearly 60,000 acres near white pine stands. Currant and gooseberry bushes act as alternate hosts to the disease.

Initial protection against blister rust has now been given to approximately 70 per cent of the state's 364 thousand acres of white pine.

Blister rust control in Wisconsin is conducted cooperatively under the joint leadership of the Wisconsin department of agriculture and the United States department of agriculture. The Wisconsin conservation department and other state and federal agencies cooperate in this work.

will take place this evening, followed by choir rehearsal for men.

Farm Cash From Milk Increases

Farm cash income from milk was $10,000,000 larger in August than a year ago, according to a Milk Industry foundation bulletin received by County Agent J. F. Magnus. Total farm cash income milk in August was $128,000,000 compared with $118,000,000 in August 1939. For the eight months of 1940 milk was the largest single source of farm cash income.

Farm marketings of milk produced one of the most substantial increases in cash income of any of the farm products, 11.55 per cent above the eight months of last year, latest government figures indicate.

Increases in cash income to farmers from milk are important because milk is paid for monthly and not at the end of the season as in the case of other leading crops or products.

Manitowoc at Appleton.

Appleton high school will attempt to earn a 500 rating in the Fox River valley conference football race here Saturday afternoon at Whiting field when it meets Manitowoc. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:15.

The Terrors will enter the fray rated the underdog but they have shown they can be a good ball team if given a few breaks. Against East they held their own until a couple passes sunk them. Against Sheboygan Central they were out in front at the half, tied at the third quarter and then succumbed because reserves couldn't stave off a spirited rush by the Centrals.

Just what Manitowoc will offer is a question. It was slightly out-jittery against Green Bay East last week and did nothing. Its coaches have spent most of the current week trying to get the squad back in the right mind and if they have succeeded the Ships may cause trouble.

Champagne A Threat
Their biggest threat is the running of one Cliff Champagne, a halfback. However, running plays haven't met with the best of success against Appleton. The Terrors showed they have a powerful defensive line last week when they spent much of their time squashing Central. If, however, they make the same mistakes against Manitowoc they made against Central they may find the Ships taking advantage of them twice as fast. Champagne is that dangerous.

Appleton's chances of winning probably will depend on whether the offense functions with any degree of consistency. When the Terrors marched for their touchdown in the opening quarter at Central, only Chuck Klefeth was able to carry the ball for regular gains. And as Klefeth is no sprinter, the inference is that the other backs either didn't get proper blocking or made mistakes because of their inexperience. Also, the Terror passes last week showed no improvement and they're needed badly to keep an opponent's secondary back where it belongs.

Indications are that the Terror backfield will show DeLong blocking again after recovering from a clear bruise on the hip. Buecing at halfback, Nickasch at right half and Klefeth at left and calling signals. Niles and Dickinson also will work at the left half slot with Dombrowski showing at the blocker if DeLong isn't ready to go.

In the line, Cooper and Burton are fixtures at the ends. Murphy and Treiber probably will be at tackles with Londrie a possibility. The guards, judging by their work this week, will be Cain and Wettergel or Treiber. And Curry will toss the ball from center.

Other conference teams are in action tonight. Sheboygan Central goes to Green Bay West and probably will have trouble stopping the Wildcat backs. Green Bay East goes to Oshkosh and will send a well-balanced offense against Oshkosh's one-man threat, Arden Luker. In the other game, the Fond du Lac reserves should get a workout against Sheboygan North after the regulars have scored a couple times.

Industrial Softballers
Will Gather Tomorrow
Members of Industrial Softball league teams will gather at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Eagles alleys where they will windup the season with refreshments and a replay of games. The championship went to the Appleton Coated Paper team after a long series with the Atlas. Other teams in the loop were APCO, Chair company, Fox River, and Pond Sports. The Wires, who didn't finish the season, have been invited to attend the festivities, too.

It Looks Bad for Illinois So Zuppkie May Produce an Upset

BY EARL HILLIGAN

Champaign, Ill. —(AP)—Robert Carl Zuppkie, who works in football and oils, may unveil one of his famed surprise master-pieces Saturday afternoon.

The "Rembrandt of old Champaign," whose works of art on canvas are almost as widely known as his works of art on the gridiron, will send his Illinois football team against Southern California's Trojans. Illinois will be the underdog. Illinois will be outweighed. And Illinois has been routed in its last two games with west coast elevens. All of which may set the stage for another of the upsets for which the wily "Zup" long has been famed—an upset which would splash a distinctly rosy glow on what is now a rather gloomy Illinois football picture.

Zuppkie wants to win this one. He wants to win it as much as he wanted to win against Michigan last fall, when the heavily favored Michigan eleven and Tom Harmon ran into a stunning 16 to 7 reversal. And Zup and his players apparently are in the same frame of mind as they were the week preceding that amazing win over Michigan.

The puckish little mentor, usually full of wisecracks, growled pessimistically today: "We hope to make a better showing than we did last year." (The score then was U.S.C. 26, Illinois 0.)

On the other hand, Zuppkie's players feel confident they can take the measure of a team which has played ties with Washington State and Oregon State in its first starts. Illinois opened its season last Saturday by defeating Bradley 31 to 0.

Illinois chances for victory Saturday, aside from the psychological keying up which Zup will give his squad right up to kickoff time, may ride largely on the shoulders of little Jimmy Easterbrook, who can run and pass. Against Bradley, Illinois completed 15 of 28 aerials.

The Illinois backfield likely will be made up of Easterbrook, Myron Pfeifer, a sophomore, at fullback, Ralph Ehn at quarterback and George Rettinger at right halfback. Southern California was expected to depend on its usual backfield of Bob Peoples at quarter, Bob Robertson and Bill Bundy at the halves, and Jack Banta at fullback.

Plenty of Captains
Milwaukee—Marquette university's football team has no captain this fall, with Coach Paddy Driscoll preferring to name a field leader for each game, but 17 youngsters on the Golden Avalanche squad were captains of their prep school gridiron elevens. Seven more were high school captains in other sports—basketball, track or swimming.

Blue Eagles Drop 12-6 Decision to Kimberly

Relying on the lightweight Blue Eaglet players for the greater part of the game, the S. S. A. C. grid-ders dropped a 12 to 6 decision to Kimberly grade school footballers at Kimberly yesterday afternoon. Bob Schrimpt took a pass to score for Appleton. On the last play of the game, he intercepted a pass and lateraled to Skall who went over the goal line, only to have the marker ruled out on a forward lateral decision.

The Eagles will take on the White Hawks at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon in a preliminary to the Blue Eagle battle with Manitowoc. Practice is scheduled for 6 o'clock this evening.

Bill Alexander Has New Way of Picking His Engineers to Win

Atlanta, —(AP)—Coach William A. Alexander of Georgia Tech has distributed a "man-hours" rating system under which he figures the Yellowjackets shade Notre Dame by one percentage point in advance hope for their game Saturday at South Bend.

Explaining his system, Alexander said: "Time missed from practice by injured players, 490 man-hours. Total man-hours for squad, 2,672, per cent. 18."

"Since the cripples watched practice, can still see and learn, the coefficient in this case is 1 and therefore the true per cent of loss is nine. Notre Dame lost 10 per cent from a perfect rating when Pacific scored."

"Pick Tech. Easy money. One per cent is a factor that can not be ignored. Alexander listed his entire squad with the system chart, noting the nature, date and recovery from injuries suffered by players."

Red Rockets Pointed for Second Victory

Expect to Bound
Back After Last Week's Drubbing

Neenah — The Neenah High school football team will make its comeback bid in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon when it clashes with New London's Bulldogs on the Neenah gridiron.

The Rockets still are smarting from the humiliating drubbing dished out by the strong Kaukauna outfit here last Saturday, so they're going to be a tough team to beat.

Neenah isn't as weak as the Kaukauna score, 41 to 6, indicates, but the Rockets and the Bulldogs, according to past performances, are about on a par with Neenah having a slight edge, so the Rockets will be favored over New London.

Coach George Christoph probably will start his regular line-up, including Hackstock and Calloway, ends; Ackerman and Willis, tackles; Krenger and Kuehl, guards; Douglas, center; Bunker, quarterback; Kettering and Strohmeyer, halfbacks, and Smith, fullback.

A close battle is anticipated Saturday. Both squads have defeated the Truckers by almost identical scores. Neenah winning by 13 to 6 and New London 12 to 6. New London lost to Menasha 12, 12 to 7, and Neenah lost to Milwaukee Country Day, 13 to 7.

It will be Neenah's second home game.

In State League at Green Bay Tomorrow

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau
Oshkosh — A bid for a franchise in the Wisconsin State league will be entered by Oshkosh at the league meeting at Green Bay tomorrow night, it was decided at a recent meeting here.

A temporary committee to further the organization of a civic group to sponsor a Class D baseball team was organized at the meeting. Members of this committee are Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger, State Senator Taylor G. Brown, Chairman J. F. Shea of the county board, Frank Steinkrauer, Bart Heiss who was manager of the Oshkosh team in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, James Skole, Ed Hall, and Gilbert Labudge.

Oshkosh sport fans hope that the Wisconsin State league will be increased from six to eight teams as a result of tomorrow night's meeting. Other bids for franchises expected at the meeting tomorrow are from Janesville, Kenosha, Racine, Wausau, and Eau Claire, the latter two now members in the Northern league.

St. Norbert Knights Return to Practices

De Pere —(AP)—The St. Norbert college Knights, rested after a three-day layoff, buckled down to work again in preparation for their next football game Oct. 19 against Carroll at Waukesha.

Coach Mickey McCormick expressed satisfaction with the Knights' record of two wins in three games so far this season, and with the way his sophomore grid-ders came through under the fire of varsity competition.

Truckers, Jays Seek First Wins In Tilt Tonight

Will Escape From N. E. W. League Cellar Winner of Contest

Menasha—Clintonville and Menasha high school football teams will clash at 8 o'clock at Butte des Morts field, each team seeking its first Northeastern Wisconsin conference victory. The Bluejays have been defeated by Shawano and Kaukauna, the two tops teams of the conference.

The Truckers have been defeated by New London, Neenah and West DePere but have been outscored by a total of only 11 points. The Truckers have an improved team this year with a big line and the Bluejays will be in for a workout if they play their customary first half game. Defensively the Bluejays have a poor first half record.

Two Rivers counted two touchdowns the first half and the Jays came back for two the second half. Kaukauna scored two in the first half and so did Shawano but in each game the Jays played better ball during the second half.

Coach N. A. Calder may make some shifts in the Bluejay backfield this week. At Shawano Robert Nantke and Armin Weber did the best running but both were at right half. For the game tonight Nantke may be shifted to left and Weber will stay at right. Wideman will be at the fullback spot and Robinson will do the quarter-backing.

The Bluejay line probably will have Ray Michalkiewicz at center, Elmer Martell and Gene Resch at tackles, Funk and DeLong at guards and Humski and Thompson at ends.

The Truckers have used passes to score all of their touchdowns this year. Rolloff at right end has snared two passes and Korb, right end, has scored on another pass. Milford Bogdan, left halfback, has scored the other Clintonville marker and converted their only extra point.

35 Badgers Leave for Iowa City

Squad Will Limber Up This Afternoon At Davenport, Ia.

Madison—(P)—Thirty-five members of the University of Wisconsin football squad entrained today for Iowa City for Saturday's Western conference opener against Coach Eddie Anderson's Hawkeyes.

A light limbering up drill was scheduled at Davenport, Ia., where the squad will spend the night. The Badgers will travel to Iowa City Saturday morning, arriving there shortly before game time.

Today's drill, like yesterday's, will be devoted to perfecting defense against Iowa ground and aerial assaults, and polishing the Badger offensive. Coach Harry Stuhldreher said.

Those making the trip were: Ends—Al Lorenz, Clifford Philip, Ray Kreick, Gene Lyons, Bob Stupke, Frank Milau, Ed Wegner, and Dave Schreiner.

Tackles—Dick Thornally, Elmer Tornow, Harry Cagney, Harry Hartner, Paul Hirsbrunner, and Lloyd Wasserbach.

Big Ten Gets Tip-Off on Title Race Tomorrow

Northwestern and Ohio State Will Top Saturday's Program

BY ARNOLD DERLITZKI

Chicago—(P)—Another tip-off on the title complexities the 1940 football season may hold for the Big Ten comes up tomorrow when Ohio State meets Northwestern and Wisconsin tomorrow.

Ohio State already has one victory in its drive to a second straight championship. But Purdue, even in losing to the Buckeyes in a 17-14 thriller, demonstrated with its speed and passing that it still must be reckoned with in the title payoff.

Now, Northwestern, with a veteran backfield and a rebuilt line, steps into the picture in a game also certain to test the heavily manned Buckeyes.

Not since 1936, the year they won their only undisputed crown, have the Wildcats scored against Ohio State. However, they are confident of correcting this delinquency at Evanston tomorrow, in view of last week's 40-0 rehearsal against Syracuse. Only the line remains a question although Dick Richards, captain and quarter-back, presented fresh cause for anxiety last night when he injured his side. However, it was indicated that he would be in the lineup.

In the only other conference game, critics expect to obtain a more definite clue on Eddie Anderson's revised Iowa squad, the Cinderella club of last year which opened 1940 play with a 46-0 conquest of South Dakota.

Similarly, they expect to find an explanation to Wisconsin's decisive 53-19 triumph over Marquette last week. The Badger victory might not have surprised some quarters, but its decisiveness did, particularly after injuries and other circumstances earlier in the season had served to deplete the Wisconsin ranks.

Iowa began its rise to heights last season after whipping Wisconsin 19-13. Some observers are wondering if the Badgers, still an unknown quantity, might reverse the procedure this year.

Michigan goes to Harvard Saturday, Illinois entertains Southern California, Indiana and Nebraska, which settled for ties in two previous meetings, try again at Lincoln. Purdue plays at Michigan State.

Mosquito Hill To be Developed As Sport Center

5-Man Corporation Is Organized to Back Project for Winter

New London—The much proposed development of Mosquito hill as a winter sports recreation center will be realized with the organization of a 5-man corporation which this week began private development of the site.

A ski tow, two toboggan slides, a course for downhill skiing, and a warming house are included in the plans.

Actual work on the project was started by a small crew at the hill this week and the facilities are expected to be ready for use with the first substantial snowfall.

The Mosquito Hill Winter Sports club, backers of the project, include Dr. George W. Polzin, president; Nick Drier, vice president; W. T. Comstock, secretary; Dr. J. W. Monsted, treasurer, and Judd Haese, manager.

Remove Obstructions
The development will be located on the northeast side of the hill on property owned by Nick Drier. Workers under Judd Haese began work this week moving fences and clearing trees, stumps and other obstructions. A power driven ski tow will be erected to carry skiers to the top of the hill. Two toboggan slides will be provided, one on a straight course and the other zig-zagging.

The downhill skiing course will be designed for novices so that the general public may enjoy winter sports in this section. Ample parking areas will be provided and a concession will be operated in the warming house. A small fee will be charged for the use of the tow and maintenance of the hill. About two months of favorable skiing conditions are anticipated during an average winter.

The development is backed by active members of the New London Ski club but the project is entirely a private enterprise and completely divorced from any activities or interests of the ski club.

LAMPS AND DISHES

Some paintings in Stone Age caves were made on walls a long distance from the daylight outside. In one place, artists did their work more than half a mile from the mouth of the cave.

What could the artists have used for light?

We may be sure they seldom built bonfires when far inside the caves. There would have been too much smoke in any place where there was no opening for smoke to escape. Almost all ashes of bonfires have been found less than 25 feet from the cave mouth.

Torches no doubt were used at times. A piece of wood or a dry reed would supply a small, flickering light.

In a few caves, stone lamps have been found. They have much the shape of a thick saucer. A hard coat of blackened grease has been found on one or two of them.

Those crude lamps were supplied with oil taken from animal fat. Their light made it possible for some, if not most, of the cave artists to see what they were doing while at work in dark places.

There came a time when people in Europe moved out of the dark, damp caves. They built homes in the open air.

The Stone Age did not end as soon as that change took place. People kept on using stone tools for a long time.

In the Late Stone Age (also called the New Stone Age) people ground their stone tools, making them very smooth. They also learned the art of making clay dishes. Vases, jars, pitchers and bowls were made from clay.

When we find pottery of the Late Stone Age it usually is in many pieces. In Denmark's "kitchen middens," only one complete jar has been discovered, and it had a crack in it. The kitchen middens contain oyster shells, fishbones and other Stone Age remains.

The earliest clay dishes had no marks on them except the finger marks of those who made them. Certain tribes later decorated their pottery with zigzag designs, spiral designs and so on.

The place where pottery was first made is not known. It may have been Egypt or Babylonia, or it may have been in southern or eastern Asia.

It takes about 20 minutes to register each person, so a registrant, working steadily from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night, will not be able to register more than 30.

Registrations for the first and second precincts of the First ward will be on the third floor of the city hall instead of in the fire department, the regular polling place.

WPA Would Help Airport, Board Is Told

Congressman Keefe Assures Supervisors They Could Get Aid

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh — Congressman Frank B. Keefe told the Winnebago county board this morning that if the county should purchase an airport, it was quite probable it would receive funds for improvement from the WPA and not from national defense appropriations.

"Upon the past record and the law as it now stands, it is my opinion that if you buy the airport you will get the funds necessary to improve it. The WPA has allocated funds for airport improvement work, which are separate from national defense, and has set up a separate airport division," he said.

The purchase price of the airport would be considered as the sponsor's contribution in securing WPA funds. The ratio of such funds would be 25 per cent from the sponsor and 75 per cent from the WPA. The WPA was told.

"The board is looking for projects to spend its money on and is encouraging the development of municipal airports. In order to get these funds the county would have to buy the airport first and then make application for a WPA grant," Keefe said.

The recent appropriation of $40,000 for airports, as part of the national defense, covers only 250 airports which are to be authorized for national defense by a board consisting of the secretaries of war, navy, and commerce, Keefe explained. He added that he thought airports at Milwaukee, Madison, and Camp Douglas would be the only fields in Wisconsin to receive shares of that appropriation.

Evans Asserts GOP Must Win

Says There May Never Be Another Campaign If Republicans Lose

Menasha — Dr. Silas Evans of Ripon college, head of the "all-party" Willkie-for-President club in Wisconsin, warned 200 people at S. A. Cook armory Thursday night that the present campaign is "a crusade for the American way of life. There may never be another campaign if this one is not won." The meeting was sponsored by the Menasha Republican club and Dr. Dell Curtis introduced the speaker. The Ripon educator said that he is working and voting for the Republican party for the first time in his life because he is for "that party that gets us back into the American way of life, regardless of the title of that party. The Republican party now represents the principles for which the Democratic party formerly stood."

Principles of the Democratic party since Jefferson have been state rights, economy, and simplicity but all of those principles have been flagrantly violated by the present administration. "Today the Republican party stands for the principles of Jefferson more so than the so-called Democratic party."

The speaker referred to the Democratic convention as the "greatest piece of political hypocrisy" in history. The demand for the nomination of Wendell Willkie, a former Democrat, came not from the political boss but from the tax payers, the people in the galleries and in the street.

Frank B. Keefe, Oshkosh, representative in congress, who returned from Washington for the weekend, declared that "War is on the saddle at Washington whether one likes to hear it or not" in an impromptu address. "What can congress do when the president has supreme power in foreign affairs?"

The country is depressed at knowing what is taking place at Washington and the only way to get over it is to get rid of the gang in control there."

Keefe promised to return to the Twin Cities later in the campaign to expose what is going on in Washington. He described the campaign as a battle to save the nation.

Johnson Says Noise in East Means War Is Campaign Issue

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Chicago — What is the great crisis off the coast of China which so plainly threatens us with war with Japan and is so precisely timed for the presidential election? It is that Japan, Germany and Italy have agreed that if any other nation makes war on any one of them, the three will join to defend each other. There is nothing new about that kind of defensive alliance. That is the kind of agreement that France and England had with Poland which brought on this new world war when Germany attacked Poland. That turned Hitler's threat when it was headed east. It is the kind of agreement that France had with all the small nations around Germany which were created by the treaty of Versailles—the so-called cordon sanitaire which didn't work except to destroy Europe. But now it is said that a war between us and Japan is immediately threatened because of this very usual, but not very sensible, triple alliance. Why? Because our people want to fight a war against yellow men in Asia? Ninety-nine per cent of them don't, 80 per cent wouldn't even know what the issues are. Yet so much arrogant power has been seized by the president, that acts could be arranged that could put us into that war tomorrow—so far and so tight that we could never get out without a fight to the finish.

Standing high to get an airplane view of this whole situation, such an outcome seems incredible. We are told that our great danger eastward, in Europe, that Hitler is our menace. Yet here is a government of ours that threatens to embroil us 12,000 miles from the heart of that danger—6,000 miles westward from our own coasts.

What American interests are threatened there? Principally some Standard Oil properties and, so far as China is concerned, not $200,000,000 altogether—that plus an insignificant annual trade total. Our principal trade is with Japan. Such a war would cost us that and uncoupled billions more, and get us nothing. Our flag is in the Philippines made at their request, to withdraw it. Our interests there are almost negligible. The argument of our dependence on Indo-China and Malaysia for rubber and tin is a light makeweight for war, recently greatly discounted or completely exploded.

Why then are we being shoved by the president to the edge of war on the edge of an election, without the will of the people or congress, and with no more reason than has been stated here, largely on the support of a few cocky professional admirals and a few amateur military kibitzers and columnar strategists?

Hard To Argue That Domination Is Purpose

It is hard to answer—"To insure Mr. Roosevelt's election by creating war hysteria." Such tactics seem too cold-blooded, inhuman and despicable, but as the president, himself, is so fond of saying: "Res ipsa loquitur"—the thing speaks for itself.

Of course, other reasons are advanced. Our great naval strategist, Walter Lippmann, calls what is going on the battle of oceans. Mr. be an electric roaster demonstration.

Royalton — Miss Lucile Ritchie of this place, who teaches the first and second grades of the public school in Spring, took her 25 pupils on a train ride Wednesday from Spring to Mountain. A candy sale earlier in the week financed the project.

Automobiles met the pupils at Mountain to take them on the home trip as train schedules were not such as to allow for a round trip by rail. The monthly committee meeting in the Hobart schoolhouse will be held on Friday evening, Oct. 25, with the following committee in charge of entertainment and refreshments: Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Redman, Mrs. Oscar Haight and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bork.

Word has been received by relatives here of the critical illness with a heart affliction, of Arthur J. Evison of Los Angeles, Calif. Mrs. Evison was the former Miss Elizabeth Crane of Weyauwega.

Waupaca County Conservators have received word from the state of Georgia that the party of twelve men and boys from that state, who made a trip to Wisconsin last August to tour the state, took motion pictures while here, which will be shown throughout Georgia. The film will also be loaned to schools and civic organizations in that state. While in Waupaca county the group were guests of Commissioner and Mrs. E. E. Browne of Waupaca.

Cyril Martin, newly appointed postmaster at Royalton, has moved the office from the building of the former Postmaster Sullivan to rooms in his own dwelling.

State Forester Makes

Plans for Meetings

Chilton — F. B. Trenk, state forester, was in Chilton Wednesday morning to formulate plans for holding meetings at the George Schaefer farm sometime in November to plant wind-breaks and to demonstrate the care of wood lots, many of which are neglected, with cattle permitted to pasture and roam at large destroying and trampling down the young growth.

Wheat Prices

Turn Upward

Sudden Spurt of

Buying Lifts Values

To Best 4-Month Mark

Chicago—A sudden spurt of buying, characteristic of frequent similar operations the past few weeks, today gave the wheat market a quick upturn that carried prices about 1 1/2 cents to the best level in four months for December contracts.

Although profit-taking reduced the gain, the market remained firm in response to "short" covering and some purchasing credited to milling and consuming interests stimulated by the sudden upturn. Traders said the buying came through several commission houses and probably originated with professional dealers. They attributed it largely to belief that a technical scarcity of commercial supplies would prevail as long as producers are encouraged to hold wheat in storage, partly under government loans.

Receipts were: Wheat 15 cars, corn 224, oats 22.

Wheat closed 3 1/2 cents higher than yesterday, December 83 1/4; May 82 1/4; corn 1 1/2 higher, December 59 1/4; May 60 1/4; oats 1 1/2 up.

Stocks Try to

Climb but Lack

Staying Power

Cheering Business

Developments Bolster

Exchange Sentiment

New York — (U.S.D.A.) The stock market had its brisk rallying moments today but, as in recent weeks, tended to lose confidence as the proceedings drew to a close.

The list moped in extremely narrow territory during the forenoon, with dealings inconsequential. A buying flurry in steels gave leaders a brief swing after mid-day. Then there was a reversion to the doldrums and early gains running to a point or more for active favorites were cut or canceled in many instances.

Transfers for the five hours approximated 400,000 shares.

Bolstering sentiment somewhat, brokers said, was the continuance of cheering business developments, a little better feeling in boardrooms toward the political situation and further waning of nervousness over American-Japanese relations.

Among rising shares most of the time were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Airlines, Sperry, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Eastman Kodak, U. S. Gypsum, American Woolen, preferred, Great Northern and Texas Corp.

Bonds tilted forward selectively, rails receiving support. Commodities were mostly on the upgrade.

Wheat at Chicago advanced 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel and corn was ahead 1/4 to 1/2. Cotton, in late transactions, was 15 to 30 cents a bale lower. Securities at London improved.

The new Crucible preferred shares, which came on the "big board" Thursday, jumped several points and the common also pushed upward. Declaration of a $1.25 dividend on the senior issue, it was thought, led to talk of a nearby disbursement on the junior stock in earnings under the revised capital set-up.

Steels came in for further study as forecasts of sustained mill operations at present high levels were made. Interest was expressed in the comment of President Walter S. Tower of the American Iron and Steel Institute that no large-scale expansion of steel-making facilities is necessary now and that any shortage of the metal due to armament requirements was unlikely.

Satisfaction was voiced by followers of the automotive group with Ward's summary placing this week's assemblies at 108,457 units compared with 105,152 the week before and 75,860 in the like 1939 period.

Memory of the Moon

By Jeanne Bowman

few young men like that. She could handle them more easily than the other kind. "Find me something to wear," she coaxed.

Meg's eyes were suddenly merry. "Juliano," she called, "bring a horse for Miss Conchita, and a boy for a guide."

A few minutes later Constance eyed herself in Meg's mirror and shook with laughter. A white shirt-waist of Meg's was rolled up about her elbows. Blue overalls, brought from the ranch house, were rolled up at the cuffs. A red kerchief was knotted about her throat, but the crowning glory was Meg's garden hat, a man's straw which settled down over Constance's ears until she looked as though she were in hiding.

At least the horse was beautiful, a shining chestnut mare with restless head, glancing resentfully back at the ornate Mexican saddle.

It was such a contrast to the flat English pads she had ridden in at the park. Constance felt that she was in an armchair.

The guide, a boy riding a pinto, led her away to a mountain trail, and she looked about her and found the world glorious. She was riding on a Cabrillo horse, on a Cabrillo trail, looking at Cabrillo hills and trees and tiny streams.

They came out on a round knoll where a lone horseman sat staring at a herd of strange-looking cows. He straightened and the sun seemed to burst into a million golden sparks and shower them about Constance.

The man was Pedro. "Buenos dias," she called and spurred her horse ahead.

Pedro, who was watching her approach with little interest, suddenly leaned forward, and then he began to laugh and Constance felt her cheeks grow red with anger.

After all, a vaquero did not laugh at a Cabrillo, though that Cabrillo had laughed at herself, and even though that vaquero had rid himself of his showman's clothes and wore now the plain white shirt, blue jeans, and gray felt hat of the average stockman.

"What is so amusing?" Constance demanded.

Pedro sobered. "One doesn't post in a Mexican saddle, Miss Michael."

"Miss Cabrillo to you, Pedro," she snapped.

"Mr. Taylor to you, Senorita Conchita Cabrillo," he retorted.

Constance grasped the saddle horn to steady herself.

Young Taylor. Oh, why hadn't she paid more attention to Sam and to Min! Why hadn't it occurred to her that they were speaking of the manager's son?

And what had they said? Sam had said: "He shore has a way with girls," and that he'd been back from college several years but "them coeds ain't given up yet."

And Min had wished her good luck! Constance writhed with humiliation, and then with indignation as she realized Taylor was not surprised to learn her identity.

"You knew last night," she accused heatedly. "Why did you pose as a vaquero and call yourself Pedro? And why pretend you didn't know my identity? And how did you know?"

"One at a time, please," begged Taylor. "But first take off that hat... there, that's better."

"I am taking it off," announced Constance loftily, "because it hurts my ears."

"All right," Taylor smiled at her. "First, I didn't pose as a vaquero. I am one. Of course I help manage the ranch while Dad's laid up by the way," he broke off in mock apprehension, "did you meet my father?"

Constance was forced to laugh. "I did. Go on."

"All right I am a cowboy, and you with your Spanish ancestry should know Pedro is Peter in Spanish. My name is Peter."

"As to your identity, I assumed you had reasons for calling yourself Miss Michael, so I accepted your Michael identity... and treated you accordingly."

Constance thought of their parting scene the previous night and flushed. "But how did you recognize me as a Cabrillo? I don't look like one."

Taylor looked thoughtfully for a moment, then brightened. "You were angry when the Station Master at the junction called this the Taylor ranch. Then Sam noticed your bags were initialed C. C. C. And then Tim's Min began to worry about the car. She'd nearly lost it when it went over the cliff with Tim in it, so she telephoned Meg to be on the lookout... not for you, but for the car."

"Juliano went down to the highway and you tried to run over him as he attempted to flag you down. He sent a rider after me and I posted me along every road. You waited until you reached the last one before turning east and I happened to have posted myself."

"But you acted surprised to see... to see a woman driving that car," protested Constance.

"I was surprised... to see you," countered Taylor, gravely, and started riding. Constance's mare trotted obediently along with his horse.

"But that still doesn't explain how you knew who—"

"My dear young lady, when I went to college, but was considered the most abruptly argumentative word in the English language."

"Oh," flashed Constance, "so you studied English, too. I understood that you majored in coeds."

Taylor's horse sprang forward and Constance, catching a glimpse of his master's face, found it set and angry. That dart, she decided triumphantly, had gone home.

"Your father sent me out here to discuss business with you," she offered, riding up. "I want to know why you want to buy this ranch?"

"It is possible we Taylors like the place," he answered impersonally.

"No one is asking you to dislike it," argued Constance. "You are living here. You have a contract to stay as long as the ranch remains in our hands... that is, your father has, so why put out fifty thousand dollars when you already have its equivalent value?"

Peter Taylor's shoulders went Spanish. "I couldn't explain it to you."

Constance tightened the leash on her temper, brought forth a husky chuckle and murmured, "Perhaps, like your father, you need a stout desk to pound when you talk."

Taylor turned with a quick, flashing smile. "Id rather not like you, Miss Cabrillo."

"Afraid?" asked Constance in the voice Pedro had used the previous night, then with him she intoned frigidly — "just not interested."

Taylor gave a gesture of defeat. "You win," he laughed, and reined his horse around. "There's a stone table in your patio. I think it would withstand the pounding of both of us."

The ride back was short and delightful. Only once did a strain appear.
